Board Sets Plans on 9W Changes

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

WEST CAMP

Saugerties Town Planning Board filed the following recommendations with the State Transportation Department in regard to the proposed realignment of Route 9W to eliminate "dead man's curve" between Malden and Catskill.

- Realign Route 9W on alternate D east of the existing alignment through Ulster County.

- Extend alternate D (south end) another 200-300 yards to include a safe, convenient intersection with Malden Turnpike. This is heavily used and a very dangerous intersection due to zero visibility and slow moving trucks entering 9W from the west on Malden Turnpike.

- Keep alternate D (north end) as close as possible to the railroad grade until it must diverge east to miss the center of Cementon. This will conserve property that can be developed.

- Maintain the new 9W as a semi-limited access highway providing access to selected secondary roads, and not to private driveways.

- Select Patterson Road, Evesport Road and Malden Turnpike as key access intersections with the new 9W, and improve these feeders to old 9W sufficiently to allow safe and convenient usage.

- Maintain old 9W as secondary road for local and low-speed traffic.

In regard to this reduce posted speed and enforce no thru truck ruling. Improve Dead Man's Curve with a stop-light system, allowing only one-way traffic at slow speeds through the underpass. Improve Malden railroad overpass with warning light and signs to reduce hazards.

The recommendations are based on private interviews with landowners, fire officials and other knowledgeable persons in the area, according to Robert Allen, a resident of West Camp and secretary of the Town Planning Board. Some valuable information was also secured by the Planning Board at an informal meeting of West Camp property owners held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church Hall, West Camp.

Special

The Planning Board supported its recommendations with several reasons. Alternate Route C which would go generally along the same 9W alignment would eliminate most of the West Camp community along the highway and has been estimated to balloon the acquisition costs to $1 million. The use of alternate D would place the estimate of acquisition to about $200,000, the Planning Board's report noted. This Allen said would minimize the impact on the property tax base and the displacement of residents. His estimate notes that 50 families would be displaced if alternate C were chosen and only 5 families would be affected by choosing alternate route D.

The report to the State Transportation Department from the County Planning Board is similar in scope with some embellishments. Herbert Hekler, county planning director said the county also favors alternate D and would like to see the project extended to include a safe intersection with Malden Turnpike.

In regard to relieving traffic from the north going to the proposed state park at Malden, the new alignment would be effective. However, Hekler suggested that the state should go further and start work on a by-pass of the Village of Saugerties to relieve the village of state park traffic coming from the south.

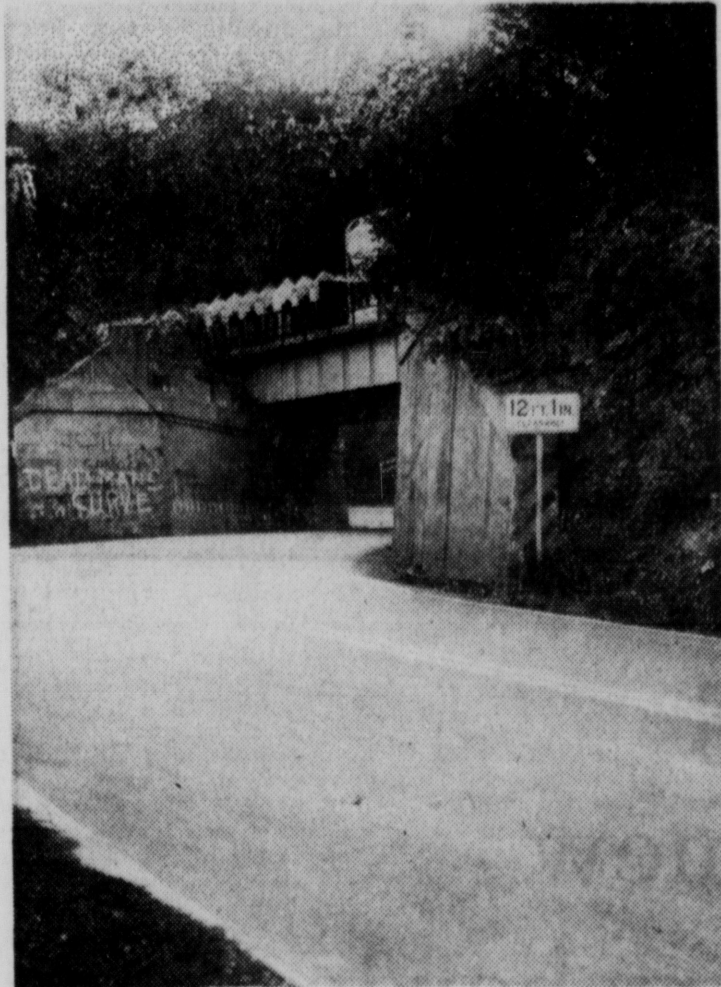

Hekler also recommended that sufficient land be purchased around road interchanges of the new 9W to prevent commercial infringement and provide flexibility for the long run, for bridges to eliminate at grade intersections when required at some future date.

Greene County Planning Board Director Waring Blackburn and his report also favored alternate D and the route around Cementon to avoid the least amount of displacement of existing residences. This is the route which proceeds to the east of the existing alignment and later returns to the old Route 9W as it approaches the Village of Catskill.

None of the reports specifically asked for a public hearing on the matter and the Greene County report in particular said it would favor an informal meeting to discuss the final details, rather than experience the delays of a public hearing.

A combined meeting of Ulster and Greene County Planners and the State Transportation Department has been scheduled for Oct. 28 at Catskill.

The serious consideration to reconstruction of the 8.2 miles of Route 9W between Catskill and Malden, given by the State Department of Transportation earlier this month was first announced by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, who brought the matter to its present status.

Chile Shooting, Also a Hijack

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—Gunmen shot Chilean army commander Gen. Rene Schneider and critically wounded him in the throat today, 48 hours before congress was called into session to confirm Marxist Salvador Allende as president-elect.

Schneider was rushed to a military hospital for emergency surgery. Lame duck President Eduardo Frei and Gen. Vicente Huerta, commander of the Carabineros National Police, rushed to the hospital.

Schneider had been criticized by the rightist National Party during the presidential election campaign for alleged intervention in politics in favor of the Christian Democrat presidential candidate, Radomiro Tomic. Tomic finished last in the Sept. 4 popular vote behind Allende and rightist independent Jorge Alessandri.

In San Jose, the government today freed four leftist guerrillas to prevent the murder of four U. S. citizens aboard a Costa Rican airliner hijacked to Cuba.

A Costa Rican government official said that when the Costa Rican Airlines plane landed on the Colombian island of San Andres to refuel the hijackers passed a note to authorities threatening to kill four Americans aboard and blow up the aircraft in Havana if the guerrillas were not released.

The official said release of the guerrillas, members of the Sandinista Front of Nicaragua, was arranged during a telephone conversation between acting President Manuel Aguilar Bonilla and Mexican Foreign Minister Antonio Carrillo Flores.

The craft departed from Havana after refueling on San Andres where officials said 32 of the 44 persons aboard were allowed to disembark.

The hijacking was the 28th successful one of the year in the Western Hemisphere and the 19th of a Latin American aircraft.

The Sandinistas operate in Nicaragua where they have warred for years with the government of President Anastasio Somoza.

They take their name from Cesar Augusto Sandino, a Nicaraguan guerrilla who eluded U.S. Marines who sought to hunt him down in that Central American country. Sandino was shot to death in an ambush in 1934, after the departure of the Marines.

The freed prisoners were identified as Carlos Fonseca Amador, 33, Plutarco Hernandez, Humberto Ortega and Rocio Marn.

Fonseca was arrested in Costa Rica last year for unlawful possession of a firearm after he fled into this country to avoid pursuing Nicaraguan National Guardsmen.

In December 1969, Nicaraguan guerrillas attempted to free Fonseca in an assault on the San Jose prison. Two guards were killed in the aborted attack but several guerrillas were captured.

NEAR MISS—All 80 persons aboard this Navy C-121 Super Constellation aircraft escaped serious injury after the Operation Deepfreeze aircraft crashed at Williams Field, Antarctica. The pilot flying from Christchurch, N. Z., to Williams Field ran into an unexpected white-out in blizzard conditions as he approached the McMurdo Sound area. After making passes over the runway in zero visibility he touched down on the 6th and veered off the runway, ripping off the right wing and collapsing the landing gear. ## 132-Unit Housing Complex UDC Goal

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The Urban Development Corporation seems to be shooting for a 132-unit housing development in Broadway East with the same contractor building a shopping facility in an adjacent area.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig gave the results of a three hour meeting Wednesday afternoon with UDC officials via a news release today. Attending the meeting were the mayor, Herbert A. Morris Jr., regional representative for UDC with offices in New Paltz; James G. Connors, executive director of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency and Jerry Wells and Michael Dennis, representing Wells and Koetter, UDC architects. A "potential developer" was also in attendance. His name was not released by the mayor.

According to Koenig, four proposals were discussed, one for a 72-unit complex, one for a 126-unit complex, the proposal for the 132-unit complex and proposal for 151-unit complex. The mayor said that a meeting would be held shortly between the proposed developer's cost estimators and UDC representatives to determine the financial feasibility of the 132-unit complex.

Speaking of the retail facility, Koenig said, "An intricate part of the developer's interest in the housing complex also included his possible development of the neighborhood retail commercial parcel in the Broadway East project."

The site for the proposed housing is located on Broadway between St. Mary's Church and the new city hall on Meadow Street. The neighborhood shopping facility site is below Meadow Street and extends down to Mill Street along Broadway. Urban Renewal plans call for a shopping plaza in that area.

Koenig said that there would be a meeting between UDC officials and the potential contractor in New York City later this month; and that if the project proves financially feasible, he would then take the necessary steps to move it forward to wards construction as soon as possible.

Soil conditions and topography on the site were reportedly the key items of discussion. UDC has run soil tests which indicate that the area cannot bear the weight of a more than two-story building.

Morris, contacted by The Freeman today, said that the soil conditions "are still very bad" but that the architects are working to overcome them. One of the proposals discussed yesterday on housing, reportedly called for piles 70 feet into the ground.

HIKERS ON OVERLOOK BEFORE POSTING

Lenefsky Institutes Action To Reopen Overlook Road

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK Backing up a campaign promise he made earlier this year, State Senator candidate David Lenefsky has gone "all the way" in his efforts to have the access road up Woodstock's scenic Overlook Mountain reopened.

Lenefsky will go to court with a lawsuit in an effort to force the BE-NO Lodge, a small, privately-owned but incorporated hunting club, to remove the barbed wire and chain fencing and the padlocked gates it has placed as a barricade across the bottom of the road leading up to the top of the mountain. The four members who make up the club purchased some 300 acres of land on Overlook last year and, in an effort to keep it "forever wild" for their own use, built two lodges and sealed them off from trespassers with the gate and posted signs.

Convinced the club's action was illegal, the State Senate candidate has retained the local law firm of Warner, Koplovitz and Fabricant for the purpose of getting the court to reopen the roadway, long used by picnickers, hikers, hunters and other sportsmen as entry to State-owned lands on the mountain.

Lenefsky's recourse to legal action follows other hard-hitting maneuvers on his part to pressure the State into exerting its rights over those of the private hunting club. He obviously circulated petitions urging removal of the gate; has lobbied in Albany for action.

Now, according to Attorney Joshua Koplovitz, Lenefsky is the only named plaintiff in a class action that he is bringing on behalf of all persons desirous of using the Overlook road.

Five defendants have been named in the case, and all are landowners who own land abutting on the road. They are C. Woodstock's largest landowners Powers Taylor, member of the hunting club in whose name 200 acres of mountain land were purchased; William Neugold, who sold a large parcel of land to Taylor's BE-NO Lodge; Captain Sava Milo, owner of the Mead's Mountain House and other property at the base of Overlook; Peter Whitehead, one of the county's dentists have joined the county's doctors in recommending the fluoridation of Kingston's water supply. The dentists met Wednesday night at the Kirkland Hotel where Dr. George Braunstein, president of the Ulster County Dental Society said, "the society wishes to unanimously reaffirm its previous position in favor of fluoridation of the public water supply. The County medical society, led by Dr. John Alley, backed fluoridation in a similarly worded statement last week.

The statement from the dental society reads in full: "Dental decay is recognized as man's most widespread chronic disease. Fluoridation of the public water supply has been scientifically determined to be a medically safe and effective means of reducing the incidence of this disease by more than 60 per cent. The Ulster County Dental Society personally participated in a survey which confirmed this fact.

"Therefore, the Ulster County Dental Society wishes to unanimously reaffirm its previous position in favor of fluoridation of the public water supply. This organization further wishes to commend the enactment of this measure to the local governmental authorities."

Some of those local governmental authorities, Common Council members Mrs. Florence S. Ludlow (D-Fourth Ward), John E. Finch (D-Fifth Ward), Titus B. Sims (R-13th Ward), John P. Heitzman (D-First Ward), and Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo, were in attendance by invitation of the dental society.

Quick, the chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee which is considering fluoridation legislation, told the dentists that the issue has not been settled yet on which governmental body will vote on fluoridation, the Council or the city's water board. He said he expected an answer "very shortly."

Quick told The Freeman that the public meeting that he had originally planned for Oct. 28 will have to be postponed until "probably" Nov. 5.

A pre-emptive "right of way" or easement. Cutting off that right via the gate and trespass signs was therefore "illegal and improper," the Lenefsky attorney will argue.

A second course of action will be to argue that the roadway became a "public highway" within the meaning of Section 189 of the State Highway Law, because it was used by the public over a decade, while it was also being maintained by a governmental body (the State of New York), which kept it open and maintained in order to man a fire watch tower on top of the mountain.

Lenefsky, who wants State-owned lands bordering the road returned to people who have enjoyed them since before the advent of the automobile and paved highways, had originally hoped the State would take action. When officials in Albany failed to work toward the removal of the fence, he elected to go ahead with the lawsuit, after waiting a full week beyond the promised action on opening Overlook had failed to materialize.

Says plaintiff-candidate Lenefsky: "I'd like to see Overlook opened up again before the hunting season begins. I want to make sure that hunters have access to an area they have enjoyed using for centuries, and that all others who have sought recreation of many types there in the past will be able to do so again the future."

Wide Search for Missing Generals

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkish planes and ground forces searched today for two U.S. Army generals whose plane is believed to have crashed Wednesday night in the mountains of eastern Turkey.

near the Soviet border. Bad weather was hindering the search. Maj. Gen. Edward C. D. Scherrer, commander of the Joint U.S. Military Mission to Turkey, and Brig. Gen. Claude M. McQuarrie Jr., head of the mission's Army section, were making a tour of Turkish military installations when their six-passenger U8 plane disappeared in very bad weather. Scherrer is the highest ranking American officer in Turkey.

His mission handles distribution of military aid to the country, a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The plane, with U.S. Army Maj. James P. Russell at the controls, was on a one-hour flight from Erzurum to Kars.

An unidentified Turkish escort officer also was aboard.

Scherrer, 57, a native of Shawneetown, Ill., has headed the mission in Turkey since December 1968. He is a 1937 graduate of West Point and served in the Pacific in World War II. After the war he served in Europe, in South Korea and in Washington with the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He is married and has two grown sons.

McQuarrie, 45, was born at Ft. Benning, Ga., the son of a professional soldier. He was graduated from West Point in June 1945. He commanded a company and a battalion during the Korean War, and in Vietnam he was deputy commander of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and chief of staff of the Army Support Command. He is married and has three children.

President Hopeful of Talks On the Middle East Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon hoped at his meeting today with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to make some progress in easing the Middle East crisis which administration officials fear may eventually lead to a direct confrontation between the two nuclear super powers.

The White House meeting was the President's first session with a high-level Soviet official since he took office 21 months ago.

Prospects appeared dim for any significant progress on the major issue presently involving the two powers after Gromyko in a tough speech Wednesday at the United Nations, charged the United States with lying about the Kremlin's activities in the Middle East.

Nixon's meeting with Gromyko follows two sessions Secretary of State William P. Rogers has held with the Soviet foreign minister in New York.

Rogers and presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger will be the only other U.S. officials present. Gromyko will have with him the Soviet ambassador to the United States, Anatoly F. Dobrynin and an interpreter.

The United States, has been thwarted in its effort to get the interrupted Middle East peace talks back on the track. Egypt has refused to "rectify" the situation created by her alleged violations of the Aug. 7 cease-fire standstill and Israel has refused to resume the discussions until Cairo has pulled back or pulled out the Soviet missiles the U.S. said it put into the zone along the Suez Canal.

Administration officials said they had little hope Russia would be inclined to bring pressure on Egypt to pull back the missiles. The administration assessment is that the Soviet Union at present is preoccupied primarily with trying to solidify its position with the new Egyptian regime.

Nixon planned, his aides said, to try to persuade Gromyko of the merits of the new U.S. Indochina peace plan, which includes proposals for a cease-fire in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos and an all-Indochina conference to work out a peace agreement. The Nixon administration would like to get Moscow to bring what pressure it can on Hanoi to at least accept the U.S. plan as a basis for discussion.

Gromyko threw cold water on that in advance when he said at the United Nations that Nixon's proposals on Vietnam were not attractive and that the United States should get out of that country and also quit interfering in Cambodia and Laos if it really wants peace in the area.

U.S. Toll Lowest Since 1966

By FRANK FROSCH

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—The Cambodian Command said today Viet Cong units lay in wait for an advancing 10-battalion Cambodian task force and carried out two attacks on Highway 2 at points south of Phnom Penh and near the Vietnamese border.

Communiques from Saigon said 40 Americans were killed in Vietnam last week, the lowest death toll since April of 1966. It brought to 43,861 the number of U.S. troops killed in the war since Jan. 1, 1961. Another 432 were wounded last week.

Field reports showed B52 bombers concentrated all their missions against the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos today. The 13 days that have lapsed since the B52s flew any raids in Vietnam were the longest period out of the country since the Stratofortresses arrived in Vietnam June 18, 1965.

The Cambodian Command said the first attack by the Viet Cong came Wednesday as Cambodian troops pushed into Kirivong, 27 miles south of Phnom Penh and three miles from the Vietnamese frontier.

"It was the first time our troops arrived in Kirivong since the war began," a Cambodian military spokesman said. "The Viet Cong were waiting."

Heavy fighting broke out around Kirivong and the Cambodians called in air support. Casualties were not announced.

"The Viet Cong also struck at the Cambodian force near the town of Chabak, 21 miles south of Phnom Penh, field officers said. Chabak had been looted by fleeing Viet Cong troops when Cambodian units captured it Monday. No casualties were reported in that clash either.

The announcement of the fighting at Kirivong revealed just how extensive the Cambodian operation to clear Highway 2 has become. When the operation began a week ago, the Cambodian High Command said it was designed to clear only 40 miles of the highway between Phnom Penh and the provincial capital of Takeo.

A military spokesman admitted today that Cambodian troops had pushed far beyond Takeo and were trying to secure 36 more miles of the highway all the way to the Vietnamese border.

The 10-battalion task force said it broke up a two-regiment Communist advance on Phnom Penh in fighting 20 miles south of the capital.

Before Wednesday's fighting, the Cambodian Command said casualties for the Highway 2 operation totaled six dead and 60 wounded.

The U.S. Military Command in Saigon said today two Americans were killed and one was listed as missing in the Oct. 17 loss of an OH6 light observation helicopter 38 miles northeast of Saigon.

The command withheld information on the crash because of a search and rescue operation in progress until Wednesday.

Hanoi Still Critical

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam said today President Nixon's latest peace proposal was not an effort to settle the Indochina War but rather an attempt to get votes in the Nov. 3 elections.

Entering the 89th session of the Vietnam peace conference, North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy again attacked Nixon's Oct. 7 five-point peace proposal.

The Viet Cong negotiator, Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, appealed for acceptance of the Communist 10-point "global peace solution."

"It is more and more clear that the five points of Mr. Nixon are not destined to settle peacefully the Vietnam problem but to get votes in the elections," said Xuan Thuy as he entered the former Majestic Hotel conference room.

"These past few days, the President of the United States, in undertaking a major election trip, has declared several times that his intention was to put an end to the war but the realities of the situation show to the contrary. He seeks rather to prolong the war and extend the hostilities."

"The proposals of Mr. Nixon are sheer hypocrisy," Xuan Thuy said.

Madame Binh said she would demonstrate even more clearly that our plan for peace constitutes a correct settlement of the Vietnam problem and corresponds to the aspirations of the Vietnamese people."

Gromyko Talks, Both Different

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Soviet Foreign Secretary Andrei A. Gromyko said Wednesday no "artificial conditions and demands" should be attached to the resumption of Middle East peace talks.

Gromyko, in a hard-line speech at the United Nations 25th anniversary commemorative session, apparently referred to Israel's demand that violations of the Suez Canal military standstill zone by Egypt be rectified before the talks resume.

However, Gromyko took what diplomatic sources said was a "startlingly different" tone during a later speech at a secret U.N. Security Council meeting. They said his speech was virtually free of polemics.

It was the first time in history the Security Council met in special conclave with 11 foreign ministers and a president debating the international issues of the day. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, representing the United States, told the gathering President Nixon's latest Vietnam peace plan was up for discussion and was not put forward by Washington on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

In his speech, diplomatic sources said, Rogers applauded the idea of high-level council meetings but held they should not be summoned periodically but rather specifically to deal with definite crisis.

British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home said the 15-member council was becoming more and more a propaganda forum and a reflection of the General Assembly. He urged that when a nation came with a problem it also should have a suggested solution.

Gromyko, at his earlier speech before the General Assembly, said U.S. and Israeli charges that Egypt and Russia had moved missiles into the standstill zone after the cease-fire were "trumped up allegations" designed to draw attention from the fact the United States and Israel were interfering with peace efforts.

He also condemned U.S. activities in Indochina but spoke optimistically of East-West relations in Europe. He said the Soviet Union was hopeful the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks would succeed.

U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. Charles W. Yost called Gromyko's comments on the Middle East and Vietnam "familiar and unconstructive."

"Few people will take seriously the Soviet Union's lame and weak comments regarding the violations of the cease fire standstill," he said.

Paltz Cops vs. Chief... Two Factions

By JON POWERS

NEW PALTZ — Law enforcement priorities within the Village of New Paltz are seen as the major factor in the recent eruption of bitter words and accusations that have placed the local Police Department into opposing factions.

To Police Chief James Walrath, public relations with the townspeople and the students is the current priority of the Police Department. And, he feels, a good relationship with the citizenry, one that fosters mutual respect and assistance, cannot be achieved concurrently with police harassment and "bad" arrests.

On the other hand, the four condemning patrolmen cite their oath to uphold the law, every law, to the best of their ability. They have gone on record as stating that there can be no middle ground and no compromise when it comes to law enforcement.

As a result, the two inter-department factions have crossed swords both in private and through the media with an impact that has shattered the serenity of the small force, and the village.

Wayne O'Brien, the patrolman who leveled the initial charges against Walrath on Monday, was fired that same day, although village officials cite his dismissal as a mere coincidence. While further noting that there are three more "provisional" patrolmen on the force, one village official told The Freeman that additional action, and possibly dismissals, may be imminent. And finally, there are those who feel that the chief, himself, is not immune to disciplinary action.

The troubles within the department did not develop overnight. Since Sept. 15 the Board of Trustees has conducted an investigation into Police Department activities, which has included, a rating of the performances of the four provisional patrolmen. O'Brien failed the "ratings," and then aired his accusations hours before his dismissal was formalized. Village officials, however, said that O'Brien did not know about the Board's intentions until Monday night's meeting.

O'Brien charged that Walrath ordered the patrolmen to deemphasize narcotics and traffic arrests and concentrate on youthful Main Street loiterers. He further contended that to carry out the chief's orders would be tantamount to "harassment."

Police Commissioner Leland E. Heinze, however, said that

"O'Brien obviously misinterpreted the chief's requests," Walrath, himself, said that he has "emphasized" narcotics violations.

It all boils down to the priorities established by the chief and the Board of Trustees. Walrath has said on several occasions that State Police have the responsibility for enforcing traffic and vehicular violations and that his force should concentrate on more urgent problems. The assignment of a patrolman to the Main Street beat is seen by Walrath as an effective deterrent against loiterers and outright drug sales and purchases.

The concept of "public relations" is also a part of Walrath's rationale for emphasizing the street beat over the prowling car. "I respect the students," he told The Freeman, "earlier this summer, 'I think take orders. And others have they're a good bunch of kids. I said, simply, that the actions want them to respect me," he of the four patrolmen are merely added.

Heinze concurred with Walrath's feelings. He told The Freeman, "Police work is 90 percent public relations and 10 percent law enforcement."

If public sentiment can serve as an accurate gauge of success, then Walrath has made noticeable strides in his attempts to foster respect for the law. For the past several months, local youths have responded to Freeman queries with favorable reaction to Walrath and the men on his force. "I can stop and rap with a cop any time," said one student, "and it's O.K. I trust them," he added. Another said that he had been told several times to keep moving along the Main Street sidewalk, "but I wasn't harassed," he said, "they weren't belligerent."

Townspeople and businessmen, too, have expressed satisfaction with the new chief, his policies and the men who work with him.

The dissatisfaction lies among the four patrolmen who Walrath says are misinformed and who, he adds, object to walking the beat instead of experiencing the comforts of the patrol car. The two policemen who have expressed support of Walrath contend, as well, that the others simply don't like to take orders. And others have said, simply, that the actions want them to respect me," he of the four patrolmen are merely added.

Heinze concurred with Walrath's feelings. He told The Freeman, "Police work is 90 percent public relations and 10 percent law enforcement."

If public sentiment can serve as an accurate gauge of success, then Walrath has made noticeable strides in his attempts to foster respect for the law. For the past several months, local youths have responded to Freeman queries

Saugerties Town Board Enacts Ethics Code, Extends Water

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

SAUGERTIES — Saugerties Town Board at a special meeting Wednesday night enacted a local law adopting a code of ethics for town officials; granted an extension of the Glasco Water District and held in abeyance another extension request for further study.

The action was taken following three public hearings. One hearing was on a request of Austin Simmons, developer, to extend the Glasco Water District on Flatbush Road to include Stephens Park development. The request was granted. The Town Board recessed the hearing on the request of several members of the Fabiano family, who wanted the Water District lines extended along their road to include their residences. The matter was recessed to Wednesday night to permit time for the petitioners to check easements along the property lines. The families along this proposed extension would bear the expense of the extension of about 1,500 feet. After installation the lines would be deeded to the Glasco Water District, according to Supervisor A. Michael Schovel.

The Code of Ethics as required by the state was adopted under local law and provides a guide for town employees in regard to what would be considered conflicts of interest.

Snow removal contracts were awarded on three sections of the Glasco-Barclay Heights, Flatbush area.

John Mayone Jr., of Flatbush, submitted the low bid of $5,200 for Section A-Barclay Heights, but upon questioning by the Town Board, it was learned that Mayone did not have the amount of equipment needed.

Supervisor Schovel said the next lowest bidder was A.J. Scarselli of Barclay Heights, $6,900, who will be awarded the contract, if he has the equipment needed for the snow removal and sanding operations. A third bidder on Section A was Anthony Riozzi, who bid $7,500.

Clarante Trucking of Barclay Heights submitted a low bid of $3,300 for Section B, all of Glasco Hamlet and he was awarded that contract. Riozzi bid $3,800 on this job.

Mayone was awarded the contract for Section C — the remainder of the Glasco, Flatbush area and Old Stage Road, Glenrie in his low bid of $2,100. Clarante bid $2,475 and Riozzi $2,700 on this section.

Town Clerk Marion Newkirk said today that new voters and those unfamiliar with casting ballots on a voting machine will have the opportunity of instruction Tuesday from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the town hall, Main Street. Saugerties. Voting in the machine custodians will be in Hudson Valley, and so vital to attendance to explain the procedure and operation of the voting machine.

$82.4 Million Contract Award Announced for Kingston IBM

KINGSTON — Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., along with Senators Jacob Javits and Charles Goodell, today announced a contract award for International Business Machines which could reach $380 million from the Office of General Services.

According to Congressman Fish, G.S.A. estimates that the contract for purchase, rental and maintenance of automatic data processing systems and equipment should total $82.4 million for the Kingston IBM plant, and $64.6 million for the company's Poughkeepsie plant.

"This is an open end contract, and the figures are estimates by the General Services Administration of how much these contracts will amount to before they are completed, based on past experience," Congressman Fish explained.

"I am delighted to be able to join with Sen. Javits and Goodell in making the announcement of this contract award to IBM which is one of the largest employers in the Hudson Valley, and so vital to the economy of the entire area," Congressman Fish said.

Burglary, Drug Charges Against Youth

TOWN OF KINGSTON

A 19-year-old Town of Esopus youth was arrested Wednesday by State Police from the Kingston Zone Headquarters as the result of a continuing investigation by Bureau of Criminal Investigation officers of burglaries in Town of Esopus area and neighboring communities.

Troopers arrested Vincent Paul Sessler of Route 9W, Esopus, on charges of burglary in the third degree, forgery, grand larceny in the third degree, criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree and criminal possession of implements adapted for administering narcotics.

Arraigned before Town Justice Robert Ferrigan, Sessler was committed to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail. Preliminary hearing was adjourned until Wednesday, Oct. 28.

BCI Investigators F. C. Cooper and W. E. Beyea arrested Sessler last night on the burglary, forgery and grand larceny counts, and after he was taken into custody investigators found the youth had a quantity of heroin and hypodermic implements — a needle and syringe. The additional charges were filed against Sessler.

Police are continuing the investigation.

Many High School Students Exposed to Hard Drugs: Lenefsky

KINGSTON David Lenefsky, candidate for the State Senate, warned Wednesday that "the most alarming use of hard drugs in Ulster and Dutchess Counties appears to be in the high schools, and not in the colleges." Speaking to the Ellenville Senior Citizens, Lenefsky said, "drugs are widespread at the New Paltz State University campus, but students I have talked to at Ulster and Dutchess Community Colleges agree that their younger brothers and sisters in local high schools are even more exposed to hard drugs than they are at college. My conversations with high school students have confirmed this," said Lenefsky.

"What's more, high school students who are using drugs most often obtain them from other high school students," declared Lenefsky. "The pushers in high schools," said Lenefsky, "are high school students. I have learned that there is a difference between a pusher and a supplier. The supplier most often are from outside Ulster and Dutchess Counties, frequently from New York City. High school students I have talked to," continued Lenefsky, "tell me that students who want drugs usually pool their money and then one of them goes to New York City to make the purchase."

Lenefsky said that "New York

incredible horror," said Lenefsky, "is that the average age of an inmate in Matteawan for the first time is even lower than 23 years old. And let no one be mistaken," declared Lenefsky, "there are boys from both Ulster and Dutchess Counties in Matteawan today."

"The State must provide the full costs of a drug prevention educational program in all elementary and secondary schools," said Lenefsky. "Out of a $50 million budget in 1969 for the State Narcotics Addiction Control Commission," Lenefsky noted, "only 1.7 per cent went for an education and prevention program in spite of the growing threat to young people. The record for 1970 is equally insufficient since only 2.7 per cent of the $80 million Narcotics Commission budget went to youth education and prevention."

"At the same time," said Lenefsky, "we must also provide direct State aid to local police forces for the hiring and training of policemen whose primary duty would be enforcement of narcotics laws. New York State has had a 300 per cent growth in narcotics addiction in just the past four years. Under these conditions, it is essential that the State provide assistance to our localities to establish special narcotics control policemen," concluded Lenefsky.

Drug Pushers the Issue, Not Mudslinging: Nirenberg

SAUGERTIES Alex J. Nirenberg, Democratic Candidate for District Attorney today again emphasized that drug pushers and the inadequate way they are being handled by his opponent is the key issue in this campaign. "Every time I mention drugs, my opponent (Francis J. Vogt), throws mud and insults at me. I do not think the people of Ulster County will tolerate this whether they are Republicans or Democrats," Nirenberg stated.

"I have named names and itemized cases to document these facts. My opponent has never pointed out one inaccuracy. All he does is try to make excuses. Now he says his deals with drug pushers are not so secret or soft. This is not so."

The news media was NOT present when the deals are made. The police are NOT consulted about the deals and neither is the victim or any grand jury panel," Nirenberg continued.

"When someone is charged with drug pushing — a crime carrying a 10-year sentence and the secret deal ends up with a maximum possible sentence of 90 days, I will let the public decide whether 'soft' is the right word for my opponent's actions," Nirenberg said.

"Five convicted as charged of drug pushing out of 108 indicted during the six years my opponent has been in charge. Again I will let the people of Ulster County decide whether this can continue or whether we need a change after 150 years," Nirenberg concluded.

Rolison to Participate in Panel

POUGHKEEPSIE State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr., (R-Dutchess, Ulster), will participate on Friday in a Panel sponsored by the New York State Vocational Industrial Educational Organization, at Monticello, New York, and which will be attended by the Ulster County BOCES administrators. Rolison, along with other legislators including Assemblyman H. Clark Bell of Ulster County, will discuss ways and means of implementing and strengthening the vocational education program in New York State.

"I believe that Vocational Education as established in the BOCES Program is one of the most significant and important elements in our educational system and I am pleased to be able to participate in a program designed to find new and more effective ways of enlarging the BOCES concept," Rolison concluded.

Increase for Town Employees

Rhinebeck Budget Discussed

RHINEBECK, Town Supervisor William Allen today released remarks concerning the across the board increases in salaries and expense accounts for town elected and appointed employees.

He emphasized that the preliminary budget, which indicates about a 30 per cent increase from the 1970 budget, is not the final budget.

Councilmen will receive an increase of $250 each to $750, the first increase in 10 years. "During the past year I have made greater demands on the councilmen than any prior supervisor," said Allen, adding that they will play an even greater role in the future.

The proposal asks that each town justice receive an additional $200, bringing the salaries to $2,000 and $2,200. Expenses will be raised $223 for each totalling $623. This is justified by each department assuming its own telephone costs and buying its supplies.

There will be no salary increase for the tax collector, but expenses will be from $250 to $615 because of an expected increase in postage rates.

The supervisor's office includes an increase of $500 for the bookkeeper to $2,000. The supervisor will receive no salary increase. "During the past year with the assistance of my bookkeeper, we have doubled the amount of money which the town earns on time deposits," said Allen, noting that the bookkeeper has spent more than 700 hours on the job this year already.

Dump employees will receive a 25 cents per hour increase, costing the town a total of $1,040 in additional salaries.

The town clerk is asking for a $300 increase from $4,500 to $4,800. She works full time 9 to 5 week days and attends all Town Board regular and special meetings.

The highway superintendent will receive a $550 increase to $7,800. "Rhinebeck's highway superintendent is receiving one of the lowest salaries in the county," said Allen, "and I believe the job needs to be upgraded."

The dog warden will get $150 additional, since the village has passed a dog ordinance and work is increasing. "I also feel that we need better control over the dog problem in Rhinebeck," said Allen.

A new item is $1,000 "to insure better law enforcement." It is proposed to pay constables and sheriff's deputies for special assignments. Allen said that the Town Board "has received many complaints of vandalism and lawlessness."

Another new item is $1,000 to cover a per job hiring of a town engineer. "The growth of Rhinebeck requires the services of a professional engineer," said Allen, especially with regard to roads, bridges, drainage, and unsafe buildings.

Allen plans to discuss other budget items in the near future.

Police Planning For Halloween

KINGSTON augmented by auxiliary police units, will be on duty on the night of Oct. 31 while the city observes the event.

Uniformed and plainclothes policemen will make tours through the city's streets in marked and unmarked vehicles in an endeavor to prevent property damage or acts of vandalism against parked automobiles.

Police officials emphasized that they want the children to enjoy their visitation to homes seeking handouts of candies, fruits and other goodies, but at the same time they emphasize that authorities will not tolerate any roughness or acts of destruction.

Parents are advised to instruct their children how to avoid accidents and to avoid carrying lighted candles while wearing attire that might be made of flammable materials. The use of flashlights in place of candles is advised as a safety measure.

Meanwhile, police said anyone caught damaging property or causing disturbances will be taken into custody and prosecuted in court.

Former County Inmate to Go on Trial for Murder

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON A 28-year-old former inmate at the Ulster County Jail who had worked at area hotels, is scheduled to go on trial in Connecticut early next month on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the killing of a prisoner in that state while he was under sentence, according to the sheriff's office.

The inmate, who served time in jail here for petit larceny and unlawful use of a motor vehicle, was identified by Sergeant Raymond Davis of the staff of Sheriff William B. Martin as John Reinosa, who came to this area a few years ago from San Francisco, Calif., and was employed at hotels in the Ellenville area.

Davis obtained information about the case after notification from Connecticut authorities reporting that Reinosa was scheduled for trial at Rockville, Conn., for murder that stemmed from the reported killing of another inmate at the Connecticut State Correction Institution in Somers, Conn. Three or four other inmates were involved in murder, it was said.

The murder trial will be held in Town and County Superior Court in Rockville, Davis was told.

At the time of the reported killing of the inmate, Reinosa was serving a 2- to 5-year sentence for auto theft that was imposed on Nov. 18, 1969.

According to Davis, Reinosa was indicted by an Ulster County Court grand jury on Nov. 4, 1968, charged with grand larceny third degree, petit larceny unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and two counts of burglary second degree.

On Nov. 13, 1968, Reinosa withdrew a plea of innocent and pleaded guilty to petit larceny and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. County Judge Raymond J. Mino sentenced him to six months on each charge and ordered the sentences to run consecutively. Reinosa was released from the county jail here June 13, 1969.

The information obtained by Davis from Connecticut authorities was forwarded to Fendale state police, who reportedly hold a warrant for Reinosa accusing the former area resident and hotel worker of forgery. That crime allegedly was committed by the man following his release from the county jail.

Paltz Prof Attends Symposium

NEW PALTZ Political Science at the New Palts College was among the participants in the symposium sponsored by the Conference on European Problems of Park College in Kansas City, Mo. Loeb, a former first deputy minister for Foreign Trade of Czechoslovakia, joined the New Palts faculty this summer. He had previously served 11 years of a life prison sentence for alleged "imperialistic activities." He has been in self-exile from his native country since 1968.

A prolific writer, Loeb's works include, "The Report of an Eyewitness of the Conspiratorial Center led by R. Slansky," "The Intellectual Revolution" and "The American Dialogue."

Patrons will have to use the hospital parking facilities, as only a small area for doctors and their staff will be available with the medical building. The hospital plans to enlarge its parking area with the large addition now being built.

No on Proposition One

A proposal to load another $20 million a year expense on the taxpayers of the State of New York, which will be on the voting machine for decision of the people in the general election November 3, should be rejected.

The proposal will be Proposition Number One, the only statewide question on the ballot this year. It will appear on the voting machine above the names of candidates under two levers marked "Yes" and "No."

We urge voters not to skip over this proposition. This is a matter of too great importance for the voters to be indifferent. All persons who are paying the full cost of their own housing, as homeowners and renters, would be tapped by state taxes to provide the $20 million a year give-away. In the event a subsidized housing project is built in this community, we would have to make up in our local taxes for the housing project's share of school and local government costs which the project escapes through tax exemption.

The people voted down proposals to expand the state's housing program either by increased subsidies or additional state debt in 1962, 1964 and 1965.

This year's proposal would launch the state on a program of subsidized housing constructed by public housing authorities with funds raised by local bond issues which are not subject to vote by the people.

The $20 million annually to be provided by the state and the matching amount by local government would be in addition to $40 million already being paid annually by each. In essence, taxpayers would be called upon to pay other people's rent by providing a combined state and local subsidy of $4,000 per unit. Beneficiaries in many instances would be occupying more desirable living quarters than those who would have to foot the bill.

The wording of Proposition One will be: "Shall chapter 926 of the laws of 1970, entitled an act to amend the public housing law in relation to state subsidies, increasing by $20 million the maximum aggregate amount of state periodic subsidies for the payment of which, in any one year, contract may be outstanding for low rent housing and urban renewal purposes and providing for the submission to the people of a proposition or question thereof to be voted upon at the general election to be held in November, 1970, be approved?"

We urge you to vote "No" on this proposal just as you did similar proposals in three past elections.

Preserve the 3Rs by ending the 3Ds—dissension, distrust and disrespect—between races and generations. Sol M. Linowitz, chairman of the National Urban Coalition, gave this pattern to American boards of education to keep the preachers of hate and slayers of ideals from frustrating the audacious dreams we have dreamed for this country.

At the International Astronautic Congress being held at Konstanz, Germany, U.S. astronaut James Lovell said he would be willing to fly with Russian cosmonauts if the language barrier could be overcome. He was expressing a comradery felt by space pilots of all nations, but not necessarily by their governments.

Stating that attacks on police bear the marks of a nationwide conspiracy, Senator James O. Eastland has declared war on the conspiracy, in his Internal Security Committee. "These deliberate attacks are too widespread, the incidents too numerous, the incidents too similar to suggest separate and isolated acts of violence," he said. He will be rendering a great service if he can pinpoint his accusation.

Henry J. Taylor Says Severe Test for Hussein

When Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad addressed the United Nations commemorative session the fragility of peace in the Middle East was spotlighted by Jordanian King Hussein's vacant chair.

The clue to the future in the Middle East, where we have such an enormous stake, now will come largely from watching what happens to Hussein.

Through 17 years and nine attempts on his life, brave Hussein has looked like the one frail hope for stability in his strategic country. And, by joining Egypt and Israel in accepting the June 19 peace initiative put forward by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, resulting in the 90-day, cease-fire of August 7, Hussein put his head on the block. The tenth attempt on his life occurred immediately.

Then came Egypt's cease-fire violations, followed by the Labor Day weekend skyjackings which imperiled the whole program. Hussein was forced to fight a civil war with the Palestine commandos. Then came the death of Gamal Abdel Nasser, his most powerful supporter. What can he do now?

Hussein won the civil war militarily, but not politically. The Palestine evacuees total about 2½ million. About a million date from Israel's 1948 Palestine war—22 years ago. And 150,000 more poured into Jordan when the Israelis mopped up the west bank of the Jordan River during the 1967 six-day war.

They are the victims of two wars and the cause of another. For yesterday's refugees are today's guerrillas. And they will go on gaining strength throughout the Middle East as long as they feel that Israel deprives them of their birthright.

If by some miracle the Arab states accept a settlement based on the U.N. resolution establishing Israel, the Palestine commandos would reject it.

Bloody-fisted Yasser Arafat, who once told me he prefers to be called by his alias, Abu Ammar, leads both Al Fatah, the largest guerrilla commando group, and the all-encompassing United Command. The objective is to unify the far-flung Palestine Arabs, who have had no political life. In this Arafat himself bluntly said to me: "They can be mobilized only around the issue of fighting." But the movement is bitterly at odds within itself, as grew apparent in the skyjacking crisis.

Arafat detests rival George Habache, a Palestinian who became a doctor in Lebanon, a Communist follower who is rabidly pro-Peking and was, in fact, in Red China during Jordan's civil war when Hussein was trying to catch him. Arafat also detests a second rival, former diplomat Ahmed Shukairy, a genius at drawing Arab Crowds, like fire-walkers and scorpion-eaters. Lastly, all three rivals are at war with the Arab League.

The Arab League, founded in 1945, and of which Nasser became the mainstay, consists of 13 countries: Algeria, Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Morocco, Saudi Arabia, Sudan, Syria, Tunisia and Yemen. It embraces more than 100 million people. But most of its member countries have been in upheaval ever since the league was founded. Syria, for example, has had nine coups d'état in 25 years. And the Palestine commandos are determined to move the destiny of Arab world negotiations out of the hands of these governments and, by veto, into their own.

Fractured as the groups are, the rivals all proclaim that a settlement with Israel based on the U.N. resolution would mean an everlasting bloody civil war in the Arab world. Arafat told me: "We can lose two, three, four times over. The Israelis can lose only once." All the rivals glory in contending that there could never be a final Israeli victory—always one more war and never a settlement except on Palestine revolution terms. Throughout the 13 governments this veto power emerges as a new force which the governments cannot ignore or suppress.

The new force is hard for the United States to influence. The Israelis can beat the Arab armies again and again with sufficient equipment from the United States. But it is still another thing for Israel to beat, or contain, a revolution which rejects all compromise.

The crystal ball revealing the prospect of any Mideast peace whatever is the degree to which King Hussein can control his country now against the further tests of the new force which seeks to take over the destiny of Arab world negotiations. This force has converged on Hussein. Now fractured, how it succeeds will demonstrate its strength—and supply the crystal ball.

Hanoi's Dilemma in Cambodia

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Persistent reports from contacts in several Far East countries suggest that Hanoi is in real trouble in Cambodia.

It's not military weakness. There's still a general belief Hanoi can take Cambodia militarily any time it wants to pay the price in men and material moved down the land and river routes through Laos.

Hanoi's problem is strategic. If North Vietnam doesn't take Cambodia, its armies face continuous battles from the rear which eat up hard-to-come-by ammunition, arms and supplies and tie down a sizable proportion of Hanoi's expeditionary troops fending off the Cambodians on one side while fighting the South Vietnamese on the other.

If Hanoi does take Cambodia, its armies must use even more supplies and the northerners are then faced with occupying and policing a hostile nation. For the North Vietnamese do not have the trained Cambodian cadre to govern this land peacefully. There is no trained underground political organization such as Ho Chi Minh had slowly and carefully built up in South Vietnam before attempting a takeover.

Hanoi's major problem is that her agents have not been able to win over any important part of the population. The North Vietnamese, even with Prince Sihanouk's help, have not attracted more than a handful of men with top-level leadership experience, and most of these few are not of the highest quality.

Likewise, Hanoi and Sihanouk have attracted almost none of the upper and middle level (or lower level) bureaucracy, military or business management, except within the large resident North Vietnamese population there.

And there is dissension within their own ranks.

The North Vietnamese mistrust Sihanouk. He doesn't get along well with the rebel tribesmen he's supposed to be heading. There are reports through French sources that the Red Khmers at a meeting in China in August had refused flatly to accept Sihanouk's leadership.

In any event, the Red Kh-mers, who are the base for whatever indigenous support Sihanouk and North Vietnam have in Cambodia, probably number less than 1,000 activists.

Neither North Vietnam nor Sihanouk are getting any appreciable aid, so far as can be discovered, from secret sympathizers within the Lon Nol government. But such might not show up until the tide of battle turned clearly in Hanoi's favor.

The rebel tribesmen also do not get along well with the North Vietnamese, who regard them as racial inferiors and make no secret of their feelings.

Sihanouk and North Vietnam are having no better luck abroad.

The foreign ministers of 50 "nonaligned" countries meeting in Lusaka, Zambia, in September refused to admit Sihanouk's Royal Government of National Union as the legal government of Cambodia, though the prince's people had arrived early and lobbied with vigor. The heaviest opposition to Sihanouk apparently came from the Indonesians and Malaysians.

The Soviet government has consistently refused to recognize Sihanouk. Most of Moscow's East European allies have followed its lead in maintaining ties with Lon Nol.

Cambodia is the first major test of President Nixon's new doctrine of helping beleaguered countries but expiring their troops to carry the brunt of the battle with American aid but without U.S. ground forces. As things look now it is on Hanoi's back. There's a good chance it may pay off.

Jack Anderson Says $30 Million in Poverty Money Pocketed by Volt Sciences

WASHINGTON—Millions of tax dollars intended for the nation's poor have wound up in the coffers of Volt Information Sciences, a firm with a shabby performance record and a flagrant disregard for government regulations.

Thanks to an inside track, the company has pocketed almost $30 million in poverty money since 1965. Volt's government contracts, taken at face value, added up to $18,540,147 at the end of June, 1969. But the true figure, counting all the extras, was actually $25,210,043.

Then, with one shake of the money tree, the firm picked up contracts for an additional $3.5 million on June 30, 1969. This is the traditional "Christmas Day" for contractors. Government agencies, rather than be caught with an embarrassing surplus of funds on the last day of the fiscal year, look frantically for a place to spend what's left. Otherwise, Congress might conclude that the agencies could get along on less money the following year. The Office of Economic Opportunity actually awarded Volt nine separate contracts on the same June 30th a year ago.

The full story is extremely complicated, with plots and subplots worthy of Shakespeare. Here, however, are some of the highlights:

Billing itself as a "service organization engaged in all phases of man's communication with man"—a claim almost as vague as some of its government contracts—Volt has set up shop directly across the street from OEO headquarters in Washington. Until recent months, the firm was so ubiquitous that in the words of one insider, "it was difficult to tell who worked for Volt and who worked for the government."

One Volt representative, Jack Knapp, is more familiar around OEO than are most of the agency's executives. He has wined and dined government officials so expensively that he has been nicknamed "Credit Card Jack."

A VISTA executive told this column: "Volt people were given floor space and government desks, and worked with government paper and pencils. OEO people instructed and supervised them just as if they were regular government employees."

This is a direct violation of government regulations. The firm's strangeness on VISTA was so strong, said this official, that few services, however minor, could be obtained except through Volt. If a newspaper subscription was needed, it was ordered by Volt. If personnel were needed, Volt hired them.

Volt has made it a practice to hire top-level OEO executives, many of whom have been assigned to the same programs they handled for OEO. Lester Abrahamson, for example, was a VISTA training executive before he became a contract administrator for Volt. William P. Kelly, the former Job Corps director, who signed contracts awarded to Volt, has now turned up as a Volt marketing director.

Volt Found Deficient
In 1969, OEO hired another firm, Fry Consultants, Inc., to evaluate Volt's performance on one "technical assistance" contract. The findings:

"Volt has not fully met the contract specifications for training and orienting specialists. Only a limited number of the training conferences which were contractually required have been conducted. The contractor has failed to establish minimum training requirements for its specialists and has taken little initiative to obtain clarification from OEO."

"By the end of the contract year, Feb. 15, 1969, actual administrative costs will exceed original estimates by $310,000 to $340,000 or 80 per cent-90 per cent. Since Volt was awarded the contract largely because it was the low bidder, the actual cost experience raises serious questions about the validity of Volt's initial cost estimates and OEO's acceptance of them."

At a meeting of top OEO officials, at which Volt's performance was discussed, a participant told this column there was general agreement that the firm had been doing a poor job. Yet as late as June 2, 1970, OEO awarded Volt three new contracts. More details about the strange intimate relationship between OEO and Volt will be published in a future column.

Split Over Youth
The White House is being rocked by a bitter feud over what President Nixon should do to bridge the generation gap and bring alienated young people back into the democratic processes.

The President's youth adviser, Stephen Hess, has urged him to hold a series of national conferences to bring government officials, university administrators and students together. Hess wants the President to open a dialogue with youth.

However, conservative political advisers have warned that the youths would get out of hand and embarrass the President with a list of anti-administration complaints. These conservative advisers, in fact, want the President to cancel the youth conference that has already been scheduled for February.

The backstage feud has also become personal. Some aides have made slurring remarks against Hess whom they consider to be a radical liberal of the kind Vice President Agnew have been denouncing from the political platform.

Tribal Army Discouraged
The 14,000-man army of Meo tribesmen which the Central Intelligence Agency has been supporting in Laos has developed serious problems.

An intelligence report reveals that battle losses have depleted their ranks, wiped out several veteran non-coms, and caused a severe morale problem. The fighting ability of the Meo army, therefore, has sunk to an all-time low.

Buckley in Strong Position To Pull Off Upset Victory

By CHARLES DUMAS
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—As the three-way U.S. Senate race enters its final stages, Conservative James L. Buckley appears to be in a strong position to pull off a major upset victory.

Various signposts indicate that the 47-year-old businessman-lawyer is running fully as well as his admirers had anticipated at the outset of the campaign last spring.

The most knowledgeable politicians in the state tend to agree that the contest has narrowed to a two-way affair between Buckley and Democratic Rep. Richard L. Ottinger. The incumbent Republican, Sen. Charles E. Goodell, generally is considered to a third-place finish.

Goodell, of course, does not concur. He admits he has been trailing but claims he is making up ground fast and will overtake his competitors with a closing sprint.

But Ottinger apparently does agree with the current consensus. In speech after speech as he tours the state, Ottinger labels Buckley as his real opponent and warns listeners not to waste their votes on Goodell.

A vote for Goodell, he says, in effect is a vote for Buckley, because it is one less vote that Buckley will not have to make up in his effort to overcome Ottinger.

While most political pros admit the possibility of a Buckley victory, a sizable segment is unwilling to accept this as a probability, on the ground that a state of such liberal tradition as New York simply is incapable of sending a conservative to the U.S. Senate.

Their argument is that the majority of New Yorkers are of more liberal persuasion than Buckley and that Buckley could not win election because he is not truly representative.

This contention is vulnerable to the most simple laws of mathematics, however—the refutation being that Buckley need not be the choice of the majority in order to gain victory.

Buckley's own camp points out that in a three-way race, all he would need theoretically would be slightly more than one third of the total vote, as long as his rivals were fairly evenly divided. Actually, they expect him to do much better than that.

For example, if Buckley should poll 40 per cent of the vote, drawing his support mainly from conservatives and moderates in all parties, that would leave 60 per cent to be divided between the liberals, Ottinger and Goodell. The liberal vote thus would constitute the majority, but the favored Ottinger would not win unless he outpolled Goodell by a 2-1 margin or better. If, say, Ottinger polled 39 per cent, leaving a meager 21 per cent for Goodell, that would not be good enough.

In support of their argument, the Buckley men point out that Conservative Mario Procaccino won the Democratic nomination for mayor of New York City last year in similar fashion. Procaccino captured 36 per cent of the primary vote, while three liberal rivals dissipated the majority among them.

Brandt Gets Taste Of Soviet Duplicity

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK (NEA)—Now it is the West Germans who have cause to worry about the credibility of the men in the Kremlin.

Last August Chancellor Willy Brandt signed his celebrated nonaggression pact with Moscow which he acclaimed as the "cornerstone" of a European detente.

The treaty is still to be ratified by Bonn's Parliament and Brandt—whose political fortunes rest heavily on the success of his politics in the East—is beginning to doubt whether he can deal with Moscow from a position of trust.

Such doubts were freely raised by his closest associates who came here to urge the Nixon administration to continue the presence of U.S. troops in Europe. They also sought to assure U.S. policymakers and journalists that West Germany remains loyal to NATO.

Brandt is too aware of Soviet duplicity to fall into any trap set by Moscow, a top German official told this writer. But the official seemed troubled, nevertheless. Perhaps Brandt was "somewhat optimistic" in his negotiations with the Communists he added.

A case in point is West Berlin which has been for more than two decades a good yardstick by which to assess Russia's intentions in Germany.

The West Germans have long been seeking a Soviet guarantee of unhindered access to the divided city isolated 110 miles inside Communist East Germany. They also want freedom for West Berliners to visit East Berlin and Moscow's acknowledgement of legal ties between West Berlin and Bonn.

When Brandt was in Moscow in August he made it clear to the Russians that a satisfactory settlement of the Berlin issue was a prerequisite for Bonn's ratification of the non-aggression treaty by Bonn's Bundestag. The Kremlin leaders were quick to assure him that if he would affix his signature to the treaty they would do something about the status of West Berlin.

But once again—as in the case of their violation of the Mideast cease-fire—the Russians have demonstrated their skill at diplomatic duplicity.

Brandt signed the treaty and paid a stiff price in concessions. He accepted Germany's indefinite division, the legal existence of the German Democratic Republic and Poland's annexation of the territories east of the Oder-Neisse line.

But the Russians, despite their verbal assurances to Brandt, never abandoned their rigid position that West Berlin must be regarded as an independent entity with no ties to Bonn. Moscow's policy, in fact, was never in doubt.

Over Population Warnings

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The American agronomist awarded the 1970 Nobel Peace Prize says the "green revolution" for which he is being honored can buy only 20 more years for a world faced with overpopulation.

"The unrealistic attitudes of the world toward unreasonable population growth is the biggest problem we face now," Dr. Norman E. Borlaug told a news conference Wednesday night. "We should multiply in relation to the increase in the world's production of food."

The 57-year-old Iowan said, "Governments in developing countries must stimulate agriculture while at the same time balancing industrial growth. If agriculture is given its fair share, there may still be hope in this century."

Borlaug, named for the $80,000 prize Wednesday, has made harvests more bountiful in hungry countries through development of a dwarf wheat strain that gives very high yields. The term "green revolution" refers to the use of improved grains and farming techniques to produce larger crops.

He said that before he introduced his wheat improvement program in Pakistan, a rumor circulated there that his variety would make the women of the country sterile.

"Oh, if that were only true!" said Borlaug. "Then we would really merit the Nobel Peace Prize. The green revolution cannot cure all the ills, but it is a step forward. The problem is simply that too many people are coming on the scene too fast."

Borlaug came to Mexico 26 years ago to work on improved wheat strains with the Mexican Ministry of Agriculture and the Rockefeller Foundation, of which he is a director. He heads

The Coast Slayings... Hippie Types Sought

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) — M. Ohta's red Rolls Royce. The killers of a wealthy eye surgeon and four others left a note near his blazing mansion declaring "World War 3" against those who "misuse the environment."

Sheriff's deputies revealed Wednesday night they had found the note tucked under a windshield of slain Dr. Victor

Leary Has Company

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algeria has granted political asylum to a young American militant believed to be Bernardine Dohrn, 28, one of the FBI's Most Wanted fugitives.

A spokesman at the U.S. Black Panther Party exile headquarters in Algiers identified her as Bernardine Dohrn, although there were reports it might be her sister, Jennifer, who is not wanted for any crime.

Bernardine Dohrn was sought by the FBI as a member of the revolutionary Weathermen for interstate flight to avoid prosecution for mob action, riot and conspiracy.

The Panther headquarters said it was holding a news conference today.

Algeria's latest offer of political asylum followed the arrival Tuesday of Timothy R. Leary, the foremost advocate of LSD in the United States. He escaped Oct. 12 from a California prison where he was serving 10 years for marijuana possession.

Leary, a former Harvard University lecturer, also was convicted Jan. 20, 1970, in Laredo, Tex., of smuggling marijuana into the United States from Mexico and sentenced to 10 years after U.S. Customs agents said they found marijuana in a snuffbox carried by Leary's daughter.

Leary has long advocated legalization of drugs, particularly LSD and marijuana, in the United States.

Leary said Tuesday he would work in Algiers with Eldridge Cleaver, former information minister of the Panthers at the exile headquarters.

Cleaver established the headquarters more than a year ago after fleeing the United States following a shootout with police in Oakland, Calif.

firemen found the bodies. Before the hilltop slayings Monday, Mrs. Ohta had complained to her family that hippies had to be chased away from her estate.

The disclosure of the message's contents came after United Press International reported the note was in the hands of police but was being withheld because of the frightening nature of its contents. Sheriff Douglas James of Santa Cruz County described the community as "very uptight."

The note's contents were: "Today World War 3 will begin as brought to you by the free universe."

"From this day forward anyone and or company of persons who misuses the natural environment or destroys same will suffer the penalty of death by the people of the free universe."

"I and my comrades from this day forth will fight until death or freedom, against anything or anyone who does not support natural life on this planet, materialism must die or mankind will."

It was signed: "Knight of Wands, Knight of Cups, Knight of Pentacles and Knight of Swords," with the "K" omitted once.

Such signatures are symbols from fortune telling cards.

Spy Gal in Hiding

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A 26-year-old South African blonde was in hiding today following reports that she spied for Cuba while working at the South African Embassy in Washington.

Johannesburg newspapers said the girl, Jennifer Miles, had connections with the two Cuban diplomats at the United Nations who were recently kicked out of the United States for spying. The London Daily Express said she is also suspected of having connections with the Canadian terrorists who kidnaped and murdered Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte and are holding British diplomat James Cross.

"It is understood," said a Daily Express story from Washington, "that the FBI has the names of more than 100 men dated by Miss Miles while she worked for the Cuban spy organization. The names include those of many junior U.S. officials and diplomats at several embassies in Washington."

Miss Miles worked at the South African Embassy from April 1969 until last month when she came to Johannesburg and went to work as a secretary at a carpet concern. She quit her job Tuesday and moved out of her Johannesburg apartment

Wednesday. Her last employer said he had "no idea" what had happened to her.

Even perfect little ladies are sometimes tomboys!

Great prices on girls' stretch sets!

Girls are dainty, demure little women . . . some of the time. Girls are saucy, spicy little tomboys . . . other times. And these rough and tumble stretch nylon sets are for those other times. Boy, can they take it. They can take ups, downs, arounds, skipplings, jumpings, runnings. That's because the stretch goes two ways. The solid color pants have straight legs, the striped tops are turtle-necked. Deep fall tones from red to brown.

Keating Aide Goofs, Indian-U.S. Ties Suffer

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Someone forgot to wake up U.S. Ambassador Kenneth B. Keating at 5:15 a. m. Tuesday—and Indian-American relations appear to have suffered another setback as a result.

Keating had wanted to go to New Delhi's airport—an eight-minute drive from his residence—personally to see off Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, who left at 6 a. m. on a flight to New York to attend the 25th anniversary session of the United Nations.

But he awoke 15 minutes after her flight took off, according to a U.S. Embassy spokesman, because an Indian employee working on the embassy "control" desk did not carry out instructions to phone the ambassador at 5:15 a. m.

"Disciplinary action has been taken against the employee," the spokesman said, without elaboration.

Keating went to the Foreign Ministry later in the morning to make amends, according to U.S. sources.

Not only did he convey his apologies to Prithvi Singh, the chief of protocol, but he wrote a personal letter of regret to Mrs. Gandhi that was dispatched to New York by the Indian government's diplomatic pouch, the spokesman said.

The embassy spokesman said Singh assured Keating that he had done nothing wrong, because Mrs. Gandhi's departure was billed in advance as informal and private—with no member of the diplomatic corps expected at the airport anyway.

The protocol chief also told Keating, according to the U.S. spokesman, that since the Indian government had not sent him an invitation to be at the airport there was no need for him to have gone.

Russian diplomats, however, were at the airport, because no one from the State Department had also rejected a State Department request to have a U.S. official in New York "explain Keating's absence at the prime minister's departure."

As a result, the reports added, Mrs. Gandhi planned a three-hour stopover in Moscow on Tuesday night to greet Mrs. Keating.

The reports said the Indians had also rejected a State Department request to have a U.S. official in New York "explain Keating's absence at the prime minister's departure."

Probe Bank Job

KINGSTON—Burglaries at the Rondout National Bank at 635 Broadway and a bakery a block away were under investigation today by the detective division under the direction of Lieutenant Charles McCullough.

The break-in at the Rondout bank was the second bank burglary to occur in the city in less than two weeks.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents from the local office are taking part in the bank incident.

Police said the Broadway bank at Henry Street was entered sometime during the night after a storm sash was removed from a side window and the glass was smashed near the lock. Detectives reported that all tellers cages were ransacked and the intruder or intruders also ransacked the reported for work.

Another overnight burglary was reported at Ketterer's Bakery, 584 Broadway. Police said entry was gained through a rear door. Missing from the removed from a cash box, the lock. Detectives reported that all tellers cages were ransacked and the intruder or intruders also ransacked the reported for work.

Five-Day Plan To Stop Smoking Set Next Week

KINGSTON Smokers who want to kick the habit will have another chance next week under a special five-day plan to be conducted in Kingston by a physician-clergyman team.

The plan consists of regular evening group sessions and a daily personal control program for home or work. It has been held successfully over the past 10 years in most of the major cities of the United States and Canada and has been featured in Time, Newsweek, Pageant, and many of the nation's leading newspapers. The Five-Day Plan is returning to Kingston where it has been held twice in the past two years with much success.

Conducting the program locally will be Dr. George Wootan, 185 Clinton Avenue and Pastor Dan W. Schiffbauer, of the Kingston Seventh-day Adventist Church. Group therapy sessions will be held at 7:30 p.m. each day beginning Sunday, Oct. 25 at the George Washington School Auditorium, located at 67 Wall Street.

Sponsored by the Kingston Seventh-day Adventist Church, in cooperation with the Ulster County Interagency Council on the Hazards of Smoking, consisting of the American Cancer Society, Ulster County Unit, Mid-Hudson Heart Association, Catskill Region Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, the five-day plan is a public service to help improve the health of the community and to contribute to the national physical fitness program, the Rev. Mr. Schiffbauer explains.

The Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking features such topics as psychological and physical aspects of the habit, how desire to smoke can be lessened, how will-power can be strengthened, physical aspects of smoking, organizations of buddy system and many other techniques designed to break the habit within a five-day period.

A feature will be the film Countdown, depicting in full color a lung cancer operation, to be shown Sunday night, the first evening of the session.

Developed under the sponsorship of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination, the Plan was originated by Dr. J. Wayne McFarland and Elman J. Folkenberg, clergymen, of South Lancaster, Mass.

Information or tickets may be obtained by calling the Rev. Mr. Schiffbauer.

Dairymen to Meet

The annual meeting of District 6, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council of New York will be held Thursday, Nov. 5, at the Highview Inn, Pine Bush. It will be a dinner meeting starting 7:30 p.m.

Reservations and further information may be obtained from Jack Schoonmaker of Accord. Elections and reports will be featured during the business session.

Marbletown Workers Set For Sunday Chest Drive

KINGSTON Mrs. Dorothy Kelder of Kripplush, the wife of County Legislator S. Robert Kelder of the Second Legislative District, announced today that a team of more than 50 workers has been recruited throughout the Town of Marbletown for the area's house-to-house campaign for the Ulster County Community Chest Sunday, Oct. 25. Mrs. Kelder, who is serving as the Community Chest chairman in Marbletown, said she is being assisted by two co-chairmen in the massive, town-wide effort, Mrs. Fran Cross of Kyserike and Mrs. Mary Reisenauer of High Falls.

Mrs. Kelder, who is a teacher in the Accord School of the Rondout Valley Central School system, is a graduate of the State University at New Paltz, and has taken additional courses at Vassar College, Cornell University, the State Universities at Plattsburg, Oneonta and Oswego, and at the Ulster County Community College. The Marbletown chairman also is a past president of the Rondout Valley Teacher's Association. Mrs. Kelder is currently chairman of the Bevier Circle of the Marbletown Reformed Church, a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, the Ulster Math Council, the D. and H. Canal Historical Society, the New York State Teacher's Association and the National Education Association.

Mrs. Cross, one of the co-chairmen of the Community Chest drive, also is a graduate of the State University at New Paltz, and works as a substitute teacher in the Rondout Valley. Mrs. Cross is married to Wessel Cross, the owner of the Cross Lumber Yard in Kyserike, and she and her husband are both field directors of the National Campers and Hikers Association. In addition Mrs. Cross is secretary of Ladies Auxiliary of the Kyserike Fire Company, a member of the Rondout Valley Community College in Stone Ridge.

The second co-chairman, Mrs. Mary Reisenauer, is the wife of George Reisenauer, treasurer of Kingston Trust Company, and is employed in the bookkeeping department of the Cross Lumber Co. Mrs. Reisenauer has worked on many charitable drives in the Town of Marbletown, and is currently attending classes at the Ulster County Community College in Stone Ridge.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened lower in moderate turnover today.

Shortly after the opening, the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips showed a loss of 0.20 to 759.58.

Of the 330 issues crossing the tape, declines led advances, 143 to 95.

Steels took on a mixed pattern, with U.S. Steel unchanged at 30 1/4, and Bethlehem 1/4 higher at 21 1/4. Armco dipped 1/4 to 20 1/4.

Motors were irregular. General Motors added 1/4 to 71 1/2, but Ford and Chrysler surrendered 1/4 apiece to 50 1/4 and 24 1/2, respectively.

Among the chemicals, Dow Chemical gained 1/4 to 65 1/2, while Allied Chemical held unchanged at 18 3/4. Monsanto lost 1/4 to 30 1/4.

In the oil group, Texaco held unchanged at 32 1/4. Atlantic Richfield lost 1/4 to 55 1/2.

Rails were steady to easier. Penn Central surrendered 1/4 to 7 1/2, while Norfolk & Western was unchanged at 60.

Reported Kidnap Attempt Leads to Drug Arrest

ITHACA, N. Y. (UPI)—An investigation which began after a former Cornell student claimed he was kidnaped by two one-time congressional aides apparently led to the arraignment Wednesday of Glenn Morgenstern for sale and possession of cocaine.

Morgenstern, 24, was charged with selling cocaine "through his agent, Allan Shapiro," on Sept. 19 "as part of a common scheme." Sept. 19 is the date Shapiro claims he was kidnaped.

In addition, the alleged purchases—according to the indictment against Morgenstern—were George Fisher, 27, and William Hayes, 24. They were indicted recently on charges of robbing and kidnaping Shapiro.

Morgenstern, also charged with criminal possession, third degree, was ordered held in lieu of $25,000 bail at his arraignment before Judge Kenneth Johnson. No plea was entered as he asked time to obtain counsel, and court aides indicated the case possibly may come up again Friday.

Morgenstern, described as thin, bearded and about 6 feet tall, was arrested by state police Tuesday at Kennedy International as he waited to board a plane for Bogota, Colombia, authorities said. They said he came from Brooklyn but has been living here since graduating from Cornell in 1968 and roomed with Shapiro.

Hayes, described as a former aide to U.S. Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., has been in jail in lieu of $25,000 bail since each case all or a significant part of the metropolitan area would be affected.

The petition quotes a presidential panel that reviewed the SST program as saying the noise level would be so great that "it can be expected that significant numbers of residents will file complaints and resort to legal action, and that a very high percentage of the exposed population will find the noise intolerable and the apparent cause of a wide variety of adverse effects."

The petition, sent to airport authorities for the cities cited in the Moss study, noted that in each case all or a significant part of the metropolitan area would be affected.

Airports Urged To Ban SSTs Unless Checked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Environmentalists urged major airport authorities today to ban supersonic jets unless their engine noise can be restricted to levels no higher than from conventional jets.

The petition sent to seven airport authorities by the Environmental Defense Fund cited congressional testimony that SSTs will expose widespread areas around airports to "unprecedented noise levels," many times higher than from subsonic jets.

If this is permitted, the petition said, airport authorities could be sued for damages by nearby property owners.

The petition cited a Supreme Court decision that property owners could collect damages from an airport authority if low-level flights interfered with the use and enjoyment of their land. Lower courts have since held that the affected property is not limited to land directly below landing and takeoff patterns.

One study using Transportation Department standards and data predicted that with projected SST traffic an area within a 26-mile radius of New York's Kennedy Airport "would be rendered inadvisable for single-family residential dwellings."

The study was by Laurence I. Moss, executive secretary of the committee on public engineering policy of the National Academy of Engineering and a former White House fellow assigned to the Transportation Department.

Moss calculated the affected area from other airports expected to handle SSTs would be: 13.3 miles from Anchorage, Alaska; airport: 7.6 miles from Boston's airport; 20.8 miles from Honolulu; 11.4 miles from Los Angeles; and 8.5 miles from Seattle.

Legal Mind Drugs... A Danger Also Noted

By DELOS SMITH
UP Science Editor

The controversy over school children being treated with mind drugs by duly qualified physicians stirs unease in many medical statesmen and scientists.

Each year additional thousands of patients, including no small number of children, are being medicated with mind drugs. It is a fertile field for misunderstanding, errors in medical judgment, and attacks on the profession.

Mind drugs sales are a sizable and growing part of total medicinal drug sales. They have been developed, in the main, over the last 15 years. There are now 62 of them but many are derivatives of others or near duplications or combinations. In 1968, the last year for which reliable statistics are available, $416,798,000 worth were prescribed.

The first ones were to control symptoms of severe mental illnesses in hospitalized patients, and they have been phenomenally successful. Spurred on by that, pharmacological scientists developed the tranquilizers, less potent drugs for now-and-then mentally distressed persons who are not ill in any definable sense beyond that of mild neurosis. They include almost everyone.

As everyone knows, anxiety and depression come to all of us when personal circumstances bear down heavily. Extreme and continuous anxiety and depression call for the specialized attention of psychiatrists.

Less extreme and more transient anxiety and depression are treatable by any doctor, by psychological as well as by medicinal means. Perhaps a doctor isn't needed at all: How very helpful sometimes are the sympathetic clergyman, the warmhearted friend, the understanding spouse, the passage of time.

That fact is at the root of the growing unease among medical statesmen and scientists as more and more doctors prescribe more and more mind drugs. They wonder how many are careful to prescribe only when the patient's distress really requires the use of drugs.

They wonder how many doctors limit drug treatment and make sure the patient doesn't become addicted. There are many small signs that countless persons are addicted to certain tranquilizers.

And what about advertising? Are doctors being egged into indiscriminate prescribing by the lavish ads of mind drug makers that blanket medical publications?

The advertising is technically excellent in its persuasive powers. Example: Picture of a serenely composed telephone operator at work. Text: "Inner calm. Better outlook. She's back on the board again. Relieved of the excessive anxiety that has been keeping her from concentrating, decreasing her efficiency. Now—Calmer and less preoccupied with emotional symptoms—she is once again able to perform at her usual capable level."

All this advertising is entirely proper, and the advertised drugs have been proved both safe and efficacious when correctly prescribed and taken. Mounting drug abuse is a popular symposium subject. In New York 1,400 doctors turned out recently to hear and question five well-known authorities. Drs. Donald Louria, Sidney Cohen, John Kramer, Solomon H. Snyder and Niles Bejerot.

The experts urged practitioners to unfailingly write "non-refillable" on all prescriptions for mind drugs, so patients can't keep on supplying themselves after doctors have taken them off medication. They also were urged to be sure the anxiety or depression justified prescribing and to follow patients alertly through the course of treatment.

It is well known that "minor tranquilizers" and other legitimate mind drugs, especially the amphetamines and the barbiturates, figure in illicit drug traffic and are freely available, without prescription, to anyone who knows his way around. Careless prescribing is to blame for only a small part of that. Careless and/or unethical druggists and manufacturers are blamed for a much larger part. Recently Dr. Charles E. Edwards of the Food and Drug Administration charged that some manufacturers of amphetamines produce much more than legitimate medical practice requires and thus encourage their illicit use.

On the other hand, leaders in the prescription drug industry, notably Smith, Kline & French Laboratories and Pfizer, have expensive and aggressive programs to curb drug abuse.

The Food and Drug Administration is helping through its power to regulate the advertising and prescribing of medicinal drugs deemed unsafe or not efficacious. By recent order the prescribing of amphetamines was limited to three disorders. One is "behavioral disorders in children" which was the reason for prescribing them in Omaha. They can no longer be promoted as antidepressants.

FDA also is reducing the promotional claims for meprobamate, (trade names: "Miltown" and "Equanil") the "minor tranquilizer" best known to the public, and it is expected to soon limit indications for some of the others.

Polls See Ronnie Landslide

Reagan Up, Murphy Down

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan is

coasting toward the biggest landslide victory by a California governor since Earl Warren, judging by the polls.

His major task now, in the few remaining days before the Nov. 3 election, is to extend his popularity to more vulnerable Republican candidates, such as Sen. George Murphy.

Murphy is running scared and slightly behind according to the polls—in his bid for a second term against vigorous, New England-reared John V. Tunney, 36, son of the former heavyweight boxing champ.

"You need a fighter in your corner," Tunney tells voters through his television and billboard ads.

"Mr. Tunney isn't the guy who licked Jack Dempsey," Reagan notes.

All Rooting for Murphy

In Murphy's corner are President Nixon, Tricia Nixon, David Eisenhower, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and members of the Cabinet. All but Nixon have been in California campaigning for the 68-year-old senator, and the President is expected here, too, before the election.

Kingston High PSAT Test Slated Saturday

KINGSTON

The Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT) will be held for all college-bound seniors on Saturday, Oct. 24, at 8:30 a.m. at Kingston High School.

The PSAT is taken by juniors each year and used as a guidance tool in college planning.

The test includes the verbal and the quantitative areas which are also included in the regular Scholastic Aptitude Tests of the college boards.

All college-bound juniors who attend Kingston High School are urged to register for this exam in the Kingston High School Guidance Office.

But the strongest coattails Murphy can cling to may be Reagan's.

The latest California poll, the only major independent survey in the state, shows Reagan widening his lead over Democrat Jess Unruh and running 16 percentage points ahead, 52-36. Unruh—who has been wrestling the former entertainer, apparently unsuccessfully, for the middle income vote—laments:

"I'm willing to stipulate that he's a better actor than I am. But on the issues he's a total failure. In every situation that Reagan said was bad in '66—welfare, taxes, campus unrest—it's twice or three times as bad now."

Reagan Blames Democrats

Reagan blames many of the state's problems on the fact Democrats controlled the legislature for the first half of his four-year term.

Now he is spending as much time stumping for GOP legislative candidates as he is for patrolmen from five to three per cent. Assemblyman Unruh led a losing legislative fight to restore the full amount. But it faces came recently when both candidates addressed, back-to-back, a convention of California Highway Patrolmen in San Francisco.

Unruh received only a polite reception—and no Reagan only a month earlier gift.

Another Artifact In Albany Digging

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI)—Paul Huey says he can not yet confirm he has discovered the site of Fort Orange—the forerunner of Albany—but the second day of diggings unearthed another artifact.

This was a pottery fragment bearing a 1612 date and the initials R. G. The fragment is from a jug made of stoneware from the Rhine Valley, Huey said.

Huey, archaeologist for the State Historic Trust, said the fragment was in blue clay dug up by a backhoe Wednesday. The blue clay indicates there might have been a moat around the fort, Huey said.

Fort Orange was erected by Dutch settlers in 1624 but was believed to have been washed away in a flood in 1656. Currently, the earliest Dutch settlement uncovered in the state is at Kingston, where researchers found in July what is believed to be the remains of a stockade built by Peter Stuyvesant in 1658.

Dutch creamware, bricks and Indian beads dating from 1630-1650 were found when archeologists moved into the Fort Orange site area Tuesday. Huey said many stems from clay pipes made by the Dutch around 1650 and used to trade to the Indians for furs were also found.

Also unearthed were fragments of a wine bottle and kettle and the remains of a stone wall believed to have been part of a house built in 1813 by Simeon DeWitt. Huey said there is documented proof that DeWitt built his house on the original site of Fort Orange.

The house, which later became the Fort Orange Hotel, was destroyed in a fire in 1848. The digging showed a layer of charred debris about two feet below the surface. Wood ashes were also found.

The site of the dig is on the western shore of the Hudson near a planned approach ramp for the new Albany-Rensselaer bridge.

The State Transportation Department, which originally said the fort was probably not where researchers thought it was, has agreed to uphold the highway construction while the digging continues. The department also agreed to send in equipment to assist in the dig, if needed.

Huey said the beads proved the site had been a center for trading with Indians. The pipe-stems, he said, bore varied designs, including the fleur de lis pattern used by Dutch pipemakers. One bore the name of Edward Battle, a Dutch pipemaker.

Similar pipes have been found around the state in Indian village diggings.

"But," said Huey, "the number and patterns found here show us that this is where they came from and that the site was once an important trading center."

Two Not Linked To Bombings In Rochester

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP)—Two men have been accused of illegal possession of dynamite as the hunt continues for the persons responsible for the dynamite bombings of six buildings in Rochester 11 days ago.

Authorities said they had not connected the arrested men with the bombings.

The charges of possession of explosive substances with intent to use the same unlawfully against persons or property were filed Wednesday against Douglas A. Bullock, 26, of Rochester and Gregory Riley Wilkinson, 21, formerly of Rochester.

State police said they arrested

Bullock Tuesday night as he drove near Williamson, east of Rochester, in a panel truck with 144 sticks of dynamite. They said some of the dynamite had been taken from a truck in Brockport, also near Rochester, only three days before the bombings.

The FBI said Wilkinson was arrested Wednesday in Reading, Mass., on a federal charge of unlawful flight from Santa Barbara, Calif., to avoid prosecution for resisting and obstructing public officers in performance of their duties.

Police said they filed a detainer for him—a legal move to try to bring him back to New York State.

And Dist. Atty. Jack B. Lazarus of Monroe County said other charges will be filed against the two men, but he refused to say what they would be.

The Rochester dynamite bombings took place in rapid-fire order in the early morning hours of Oct. 12. The Federal Building and Monroe County office building downtown were the most seriously damaged. Also damaged by dynamite were two black churches, a grocery and a union leader's home. One person was slightly hurt.

Police said Bullock, a former Brockport State College student, was picked up during a routine traffic check after officers discovered the dynamite in the panel truck.

Officers quoted him as saying he had been headed for Massachusetts. They also said that Wilkinson formerly lived at the same Rochester address where Bullock resides.

Bullock pleaded innocent when arraigned Wednesday evening before Town Justice A. Marion Alday in Williamson. He then was held without bail at the Wayne County Jail in Lyons.

Special Meeting

A special meeting of the Krumville Cemetery Association Inc. has been called to discuss matters of importance to all officers and members Tuesday, Oct. 27. The meeting will be held at the Krumville Reformed Church starting 7:30 p.m. and all members are urged to attend.

Missing College Youth Found Near Wrecked Auto

CATSKILL—wrecked automobile in a wooded area off Route 23 in the Greene County township of Ashland.

State Police Sergeant R. W. Miller of the Leeds Station said a deputy sheriff on the way to the scene of a fire yesterday, saw a guard post knocked down and when he checked he saw the wheels of an overturned car down an embankment about 100 feet off the highway.

The deputy, whose name was not available, subsequently saw the body of a youth later identified as William J. Hoffman, of 107th Street, Jamaica.

Sergeant Miller said the youth had left home on Oct. 12 to return to the State College in Oneonta where he was a student. Investigation showed that the car driven by Hoffman had been traveling west on the highway when the operator apparently lost control.

The vehicle veered off the left side of the road, struck some trees and overturned down an embankment coming to a rest on its left side. The youth had been ejected through the windshield, troopers said.

Miller, who investigated with BCI Investigators J. W. Mills and J. J. Salmon and Trooper V. J. Barbaro, said the investigation is being continued in an effort to determine the approximate time the fatal accident occurred.

A formal verdict is pending. Greene County Coroner Frederick Decker of Windham reported the youth died of multiple injuries including a fracture of the skull.

The defendant claimed that it was illegal to display a 48-star flag. This particular flag has been in the Van Keuren family for two generations.

L.I. Man Is Fined $20 On Flag Charge

RHINEBECK—A Long Island man pleaded guilty this week to criminal trespass in the third degree after he tried to lower a 48-star flag from the pole of a Rhinebeck man.

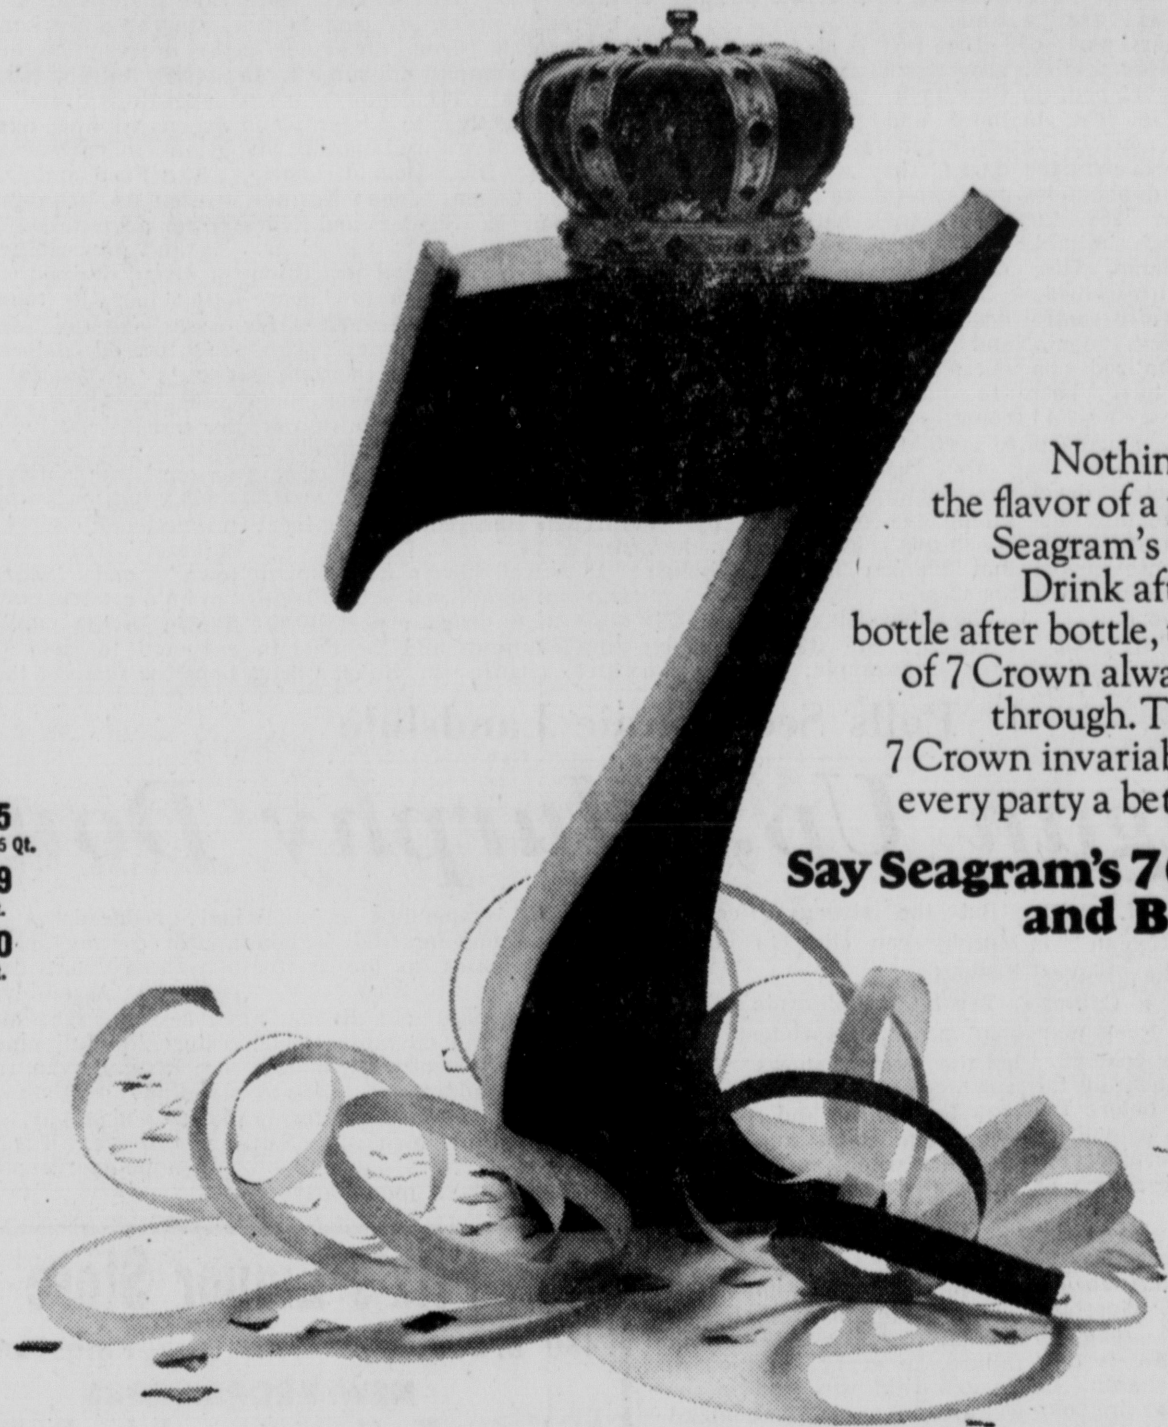

Richard A. Wachlin, 20, of Bayport, L.I. entered Royce Van Keuren's yard at 52 South Street and started lowering the flag.

According to village patrolman Walter Schaad, Van Keuren and Wachlin became involved in an argument, and Schaad was called to make the arrest.

Arraigned before Judge William F. Pollard, Wachlin pleaded guilty and paid a $20 fine on the charge.

The defendant claimed that it was illegal to display a 48-star flag. This particular flag has been in the Van Keuren family for two generations.

Last Chance for Cleanup

SAUGERTIES town clerk's office no later than 4 p.m. Friday. An appeal also is made for volunteer help and vehicles for standby in the event more help is required. For those who wish to volunteer their services, a call should also be made to the town clerk's office.

For those residents in the area of the town who live south of Route 212 and the village, two town trucks will be operating to pick up items which need to be hauled away. If you need the services of a truck, a phone call must be made to the

In Lieu of Fine Man Is Jailed

SAUGERTIES Police Chief Gordon Keeley, who made the arrest with Patrolman David Darling, said Horton R. Bunt of Ulster Avenue Extension, Saugerties, was driving his car north on West Bridge Street when it collided with a parked automobile at the intersection of Partition Street. The parked vehicle was owned by Frank Canger of 145 West Bridge Street.

Bunt was arraigned in village court. He pleaded guilty to the license violation, according to police, and was fined $50 or three days. He was committed to jail according to Chief Keeley who said the drunken driving count is pending the receipt of a blood analysis report.

VFW Schedules Dance, Awards For Halloween

SAUGERTIES It's no trick, just a treat in store for those attending the Halloween dance, Saturday, Oct. 31, from 9 to 1, at the VFW Hall, Livingston Street. The public is most welcome.

Dance music will be provided by the Four Keys. Four prizes will be awarded for the two funniest and two best costumes. It is not necessary to come in costume.

Tickets may be purchased at the door. For the nominal fee beverage and food are included.

All profits will be used to finance the annual VFW Loyalty Day events in May, sponsored by the Saugerties Memorial Post No. 5034, VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary.

Three Motorists Are Fined $65

SAUGERTIES Three motorists pleaded guilty Wednesday night before Police Justice David Goble to vehicle and traffic violations and paid fines totaling $65.

Police said Colleen Schiskey of this village, was fined $50 after pleading guilty to driving while intoxicated. Orlando Greco of Glasco was fined $10 for speeding, and Scott Peterson of Cairo, paid $5 after pleading guilty to operating a motorcycle without wearing goggles.

Youth Nabbed On Bomb Scare; Charge Reduced

SAUGERTIES Accused of aggravated harassment in connection with a hoax telephone call reporting a bomb in the Saugerties High School a week ago, 17-year-old Michael Donald Munro of Route 2, Town of Saugerties, appeared Wednesday night before Special Police Justice Robert Schirmer.

An application on behalf of the youth to be adjudged a youthful offender was granted by Schirmer, and future proceedings will be sealed and not made public in accordance with the Youthful Offender Law. Munro was arrested Oct. 14 by BCI Investigator G. A. Grunewald following an investigation of the telephone call that was received at the school on that day. The hoax call resulted in the evacuation of the school until the building was thoroughly searched and no bomb was found.

At Seminar, Audience With Pope

Nurses Back From Rome

KINGSTON Two Kingston Hospital operating room nurses recently attended the 1st International Operating Room Nurses Seminar held in Florence and Rome, Italy.

Miss Louise Myers and Betty Lou Mullen were guests of the surgical staff of Kingston Hospital at the International Seminar Oct. 2 to 11. The seminar's main emphasis was on disaster nursing and included both lectures and visits to the operating rooms of several Italian hospitals in Italy. Miss Myers said, "I believe the experience of meeting and exchanging ideas, France, Germany, Italy but mainly the United States. The group of nurses had an audience with Paul VI and sight-seeing meeting—actually more so than was also scheduled for the visit."

Both Miss Myers and Mrs. Mullen commented on the substantial sophistication of hospital facilities elsewhere, including this country in comparison to even the newly opened in the U.S.

operating room suites they visit seem to enjoy the respect and confidence of the general public as we do in the States. Yet the physicians seem to respect them highly and praised their work accordingly. All in all it was an enormously interesting and rewarding experience to me and I am sure Mrs. Mullen would agree," she said.

Miss Myers, supervisor of the Kingston Hospital operating room, graduated from the hospital's School of Nursing and has been employed by the Hospital since 1953. She is a member of the National Operating Room Nurses Association and its Mid-Hudson Chapter. Native of Saugerties, she lives at 192 Washington Avenue, Saugerties, and belongs to the Dutch Reformed Church there.

Mrs. Mullen also graduated from the Hospital's School of Nursing and has worked in the operating room since 1959 where she is head nurse. Also a member of the National Operating Room Nurses Association and its Mid-Hudson Chapter, Mrs. Mullen lives at 34 Meade Street, Kingston, with her husband, Richard, and belongs to the Old Dutch Reformed Church.

GIVE THE UNITED WAY ULSTER COUNTY COMMUNITY CHEST

Do You Have Any Questions About The Chest?

ROBERT T. BROWN
President
Dean of Administration,
Ulster County Community College

ANTHONY R. TRIULZI
Campaign Chairman
Administrator,
Kingston Hospital

WOULD LIKE TO GIVE YOU A FEW OF THE ANSWERS . . .

WHO is served by the Ulster County Community Chest?

This year you will be served by fifteen separate agencies which will be aided by your Chest organization. Each of these individual agencies in turn provides: a very real and needed service for a segment of our local society, and collectively the Chest, and its 15 member agencies are attempting to meet many of the basic needs of the entire County.

WHAT is the Ulster County Community Chest goal for 1970?

In order to meet the basic needs of Chest and its 15 member agencies a goal of $400,000 must be reached this year. This is an increase of $50,000 over what was raised last year, which represents a jump of 13%. In 1969 our goal was not reached which meant a cut in services to the residents of Ulster County . . . we cannot afford to let this happen this year . . . and with your help it won't.

WHERE are the areas served by the Ulster County Community Chest?

When the Community Chest was born fifteen years ago its services were largely centered in the Kingston area, but over the years your Chest has grown and matured to the point where today it serves the needs of all Ulster County.

WHY aren't all service agencies a part of the Ulster County Community Chest?

Some agencies, particularly those dedicated to a specific health problem, operate on both a national and local level, and therefore find it impractical to become part of Community Chest. Many of these groups have long maintained a national policy of acting independently in matters of fund raising.

WHEN does the Ulster County Community Chest function?

Your Community Chest in Ulster County does have a specific fund raising period, which this year kicked off on Saturday, September 26th, and continues until Friday, November 6th, but far more than that, your Community Chest is a year round organization devoted to serving both its fifteen member agencies, as well as the entire Ulster County community 365 days a year.

If you have any other questions don't hesitate to contact your Community Chest. Now we have something to ask of you. This year when that Community Chest representative calls, give until it hurts . . . and we think that you will find that it really doesn't hurt at all . . . and remember, if YOU don't do it . . . it won't get done.

THANK YOU FOR GIVING THE UNITED WAY.

ROBERT T. BROWN
President

ANTHONY R. TRIULZI

To Give . . . or Not to Give . . . Is Not the Question!

It is a very rare person indeed who does not recognize the basic need for giving, particularly in our present society with its many complex and ever-growing problems. The question then is not one of should we give, but rather how should we give, and to whom. We feel that a great deal of the guesswork has been eliminated from the question by your Ulster County Community Chest, a county-wide organization which is dedicated to serving the needs of 15 member agencies, who in turn are dedicated to serving the needs of Ulster County. In this way, when you make your single donation to the Ulster County Community Chest, you are extending a helping hand to 15 separate educational, recreational, health, and social welfare organizations, and allowing each of these 15 agencies to extend their helping hands to the residents of Ulster County . . . people like your friends, your neighbors, your relatives . . . and yourself.

Your Ulster County Community Chest was created to mobilize and stimulate the interest and participation of the County's citizens on behalf of various organizations which provide a wide and varied group of services to area residents. In the 15 years during which your Ulster County Community Chest has been operating, we have been serving an ever-broadening base of area needs through our member agencies. Now, in this year of 1970, the Ulster County Community Chest represents a highly diversified group of educational, recreational, health, and social welfare agencies. In addition to its more obvious role of fund raiser for its member agencies, the Ulster County Community Chest also encourages and promotes cooperation and coordination, as well as professional standards of service among these agencies. Your Community Chest also sponsors or cooperates in the conduct of surveys and studies of social conditions and needs in Ulster County, and constantly seeks to provide a forum for the discussion of the many community problems in our County.

We think you will agree that the Ulster County Community Chest and its 15 member agencies are striving to bring many much needed services to the residents of our area, but there is one very large "IF" involved in the picture this year. If your Community Chest is to succeed in its efforts, it cannot do it without some effort on the part of all the residents of Ulster County. Just as we stated that the needs of Ulster County are constantly growing, so are the needs of the Ulster County Community Chest increasing. This year the Community Chest goal is $400,000, and unless that amount is raised all of our 15 agencies will have to curtail some of their needed services. So please, help us help you . . . give generously to your Ulster County Community Chest.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Sisterhood Dinner

On Wednesday, Nov. 11 Sisterhood Ahavath Israel will hold its annual paid-up dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the Synagogue 100 Lucas Avenue. Those attending will be treated to a fashion show by Valley Casuals under the direction of program co-chairmen Mrs. Seymour Semilof and Mrs. Arnold Goldschlag. Installation of new members will precede the fashion show and anyone who would like to become a part of Sisterhood should contact Mrs. Leonard Kronick or Mrs. Henry Singer.

Sisterhood will hold a Rummage Sale on Monday, November 2 through Wednesday, November 4. Please bring your rummage to the Synagogue beginning Thursday, October 29 and please remember to contact chairman Carole Levinson and volunteer to work.

Congregation Ahavath Israel will hold its annual Thanksgiving Ball on Saturday night, November 21. Please plan to attend.

Remember that non-members as well as members of Congregation Ahavath Israel may purchase leaves on the Tree of Life by contacting Mrs. Marvin Millens. The Tree was donated to the Congregation by Mrs. Helen Millens in memory of her husband Max Millens and stands on the lobby wall of the Synagogue between the Sanctuary and Social Hall. Gold Leaves are priced at fifty dollars and silver leaves at twenty-five. Acknowledgments for each leaf purchased will be sent to both the recipient and the donor.

There will be a Sisterhood board meeting on Wednesday, November 4 at 8 p.m.

MRS. SAM GOLDBERG, at left, will be leading the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah this year. The group opened its fall season on October 19 with a meeting at the Jewish Community Center. Mrs. Nathaniel B. Gross was in charge of arrangements for the evening. Also serving with Mrs. Goldberg this year will be (l-r) Mrs. Irving Scher, vice president; Mrs. Alvin Motzkin, treasurer; and Mrs. Miriam Berman, recording secretary. Hadassah membership is busy preparing for a more active year of programming during 1970-71. Detailed plans will be announced. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Benefit Hospital Dinner Dance Set for November 22

Proceeds of the Fifth Annual Ellenville Community Hospital dinner-dance will enable the hospital to acquire needed new equipment for patient care.

High on the priority list of needs is new coronary care equipment.

E. Vald Bors Koefoed, hospital administrator estimates that between $20,000 and $30,000 worth of equipment is necessary to institute a modern care system for patients with cardiac problems.

The coronary care program the hospital plans to install is based on a telemetric system. This system will permit continuous cardiac monitoring of any patient who might require it regardless of where he is in the hospital, even when he is ambulatory. This is accomplished by the use of a small wireless electrocardiograph device which the patient carries in his pajama pocket. This transmits by wireless to a radio receiver or central monitoring system at the nurses desk.

Heart rate, E.C.G. and blood pressure are monitored automatically. The monitor flashes warning lights and alarm sounds when the readings fluctuate above or below prescribed points. These warning signals trigger an immediate response for coronary care from the hospital.

Among the additional equipment the system will have is a portable defibrillator which restores heart beat to normal rhythm. The $100 a couple hospital dinner-dance scheduled for Sunday, November 22 at the Nevele will honor hospital president Benjamin Lonstein on this 25th year of service.

Tickets for the gala, a highlight of the pre-Thanksgiving social season may be secured from any hospital director or by phoning the hospital.

Art Classes Being Planned; Adult Beginners

Altering and extending its 1970-71 art program to fulfill community interest, Young People's Studio of Woodstock has announced the opening of a new art class especially prepared for — and open only to — adult beginners. Artist and teacher Nancy MacDonald, who is now living in Woodstock year round, will be presenting all of the professional instruction.

The adult painting class for beginners is open only to the novice, and offers a thorough and well-rounded program of basic painting with oils, acrylics and watercolors. Classes meet on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to noon and Monday evenings from 7:30-10:00 p.m. There are no prerequisites for these classes and registration is limited to 10 students in each class. Registration is by the month and classes continue until late spring. The evening class starts November 2, and the morning classes begin on November 3. Early registration is advised.

A graduate of New York University, Miss MacDonald studied painting at the Art Students League of New York. During that time she was awarded several scholarships and painting awards. More recently, she completed a year of independent work at the Art Students League of New York and Woodstock. During this time her work was selected for reproduction in the 1970-71 Centennial Decade Issue of The Art Students League Catalog. Miss MacDonald began teaching to fully registered classes at the Young People's Studio during the past 1970 summer season. She also provides all instruction to the Teenage Classes that meet on Wednesday from 3:40-6 p.m.

In addition to the above classes, Young People's Studio also presents classes for children ages four to 11. Children ages four to five meet Saturday mornings 10:30 a.m. to noon; children ages 6 to 8 meet Fridays 3:40 to 6 p.m.; children ages nine to 11 meet Thursdays 3:40 p.m. Jeanne Dorfman provides all the professional instruction for these classes.

Young People's Studio is located in the center of Woodstock at 3 Tinker Street. For further information concerning schedule contact Mrs. Bruce Dorfman in Woodstock.

Annual Fall Conference

The Woman's Classical Union of Ulster of the Reformed Church of America held its annual fall conference at the Hurley Reformed Church in Hurley on Wednesday, Oct. 14. Guest speaker for the occasion was Miss Doris Boomstra, a missionary to India with nearly 20 years of service. Miss Boomstra's service has included being Dean of Women at Voorhees College in Vellore, India. She was instrumental in establishing Sunday Schools, and training village women to become teachers. After her return to the United States in 1967 she has lived in Chicago.

Officers of the Woman's Classical Union of Ulster are

Mrs. Gloria Swart of Saugerties, president; Mrs. Ashton Hart, New Paltz, vice president; Mrs. Henry Millionig of Kingston, secretary; Mrs. Clifford Davis of Lake Katrine, treasurer; Mrs. James Dunham of Cardiner, secretary of Spiritual Life; Mrs. John Needham of Mt. Marion, secretary of education; Mrs. Norman Wilson of High Falls, secretary of service; and Mrs. Robert Hess of Sugerties, organization.

Also Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth of Kingston, board of managers; and Mrs. Bart Colucci of New Paltz. Mrs. William Paetow of High Falls and Mrs. Frank McCord of Cardiner, members-at-large.

FLAG ESSAY CONTEST — Students from grades seven and eight in area schools participated in a Flag Essay Contest, sponsored by Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. ## Songfest Scheduled Saturday

"The Banjoes", a Sweet Adeline Quartet from Kingston's Colonial City Chapter, will join the Southern Dutchess Chapter of the Sweet Adelines in a songfest for the benefit of the Sparkill Dominicans on Saturday, 8 p.m., at St. Christopher School on Benner Road in Red Hook.

There are over 500 Sweet Adeline Chapters in the United States and Canada which have a total membership of 20,000. Their efforts have done much to popularize the American folk art of singing four-part harmony, barbershop style.

The program to be offered at St. Christopher School is under the direction of Aubrey Light. The public is invited to attend this songfest. Tickets will be available at the door.

Guest Caller for Lefooters Dance

Guest caller, Jim Ford, will be featured at the Lefooters Western Style Square Dance Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the Hurley Reformed Church Hall, off Route 209. All club level dancers are invited.

Ford, who resides in Barre, Vt., began square dance calling in the early 1960's. At the present time, he is a club caller for the Central Vermont Squares in Barre, Vt., the Lakeside Steppers in Burlington, Vt., the Rutland Square Dance Club in Rutland Vt., and the Littleton Square Dance Club in Littleton, N.H. In addition to regular club and guest calling, he has called in the Toronto Square Dance Festival, camp and dance weekends, and every year in the New England Square Dance Convention.

Fall has arrived and Lefooters are once again introducing others through demonstrations to the fun of square dancing. Therefore on October 30th, Lefooters will honor a demonstration request by St. Catherine of Labour for both square and round dancing.

Last Saturday several Lefooters boarded a bus leaving Kingston for a mystery ride. A mystery bus ride involves a trip on a bus to an unknown destination that terminates in a square dance at some heretofore unknown square dance club. Only the program chairman, Gloria and Warren Schoonmaker, knew where they were going until they arrived. This year the destination was Whippany, N.J. where they danced with the "Grand Prowlers Club" to a mystery guest caller, Jerry Schatzer of Poughkeepsie.

Lefooters are requested to attend an important meeting October 25 at 2 p.m. at the Hurley Reformed Church hall. The recent questionnaire tabulation will be discussed, plus the future direction of the club.

Bank Women Hold Associate's Night

The Hudson Valley Group of the National Association of Bank Women held its annual Associate's Night on October 21, at Ship Lantern Inn, Milton, at which time officers for the year 1970-71 were installed. They are: chairman, Mrs. Dorothy Gemmel, administrative assistant of Poughkeepsie Savings Bank, Poughkeepsie; vice-chairman, Mrs. Hedwig Treacy, assistant cashier of the Highland Falls Office of Marine Midland; treasurer, Mrs. Ursula Jerome, assistant cashier of the Vails Gate Office of Marine Midland; secretary, Mrs. Florence Noger, assistant cashier of the Pomona Office of Empire National.

Officers from the following banks in the area witnessed the installation: Poughkeepsie Savings Bank; Ulster County Savings; Saugerties Savings; Vails Gate Office, Highland Falls Office and Poughkeepsie Office of Marine Midland; Beacon Office, Wappingers Falls Office, Maybrook Office and Pomona Office of Empire National; Port Jervis Office of County Trust Company; Marlboro Office and Kingston Office of Kingston Trust Company; Chester National Bank; First National of Jeffersonville and United National of Callicoon.

NABW has its national office in Chicago and at its convention held recently in Washington, D.C. it was reported they had surpassed their goal of 7,770 members of 1970, an indication that more women are being appointed to executive positions in banks throughout the nation.

New York Joblessness on Rise And Finger Points to Washington

By WILLIAM H. KINCADE
Associated Press Writer

The Nixon administration's economic policies, defense cut-backs and foreign competition — all are being blamed for unemployment problems affecting upstate New York.

Joblessness in New York is on the rise.

Hardest hit by the declining activity in the labor market is central New York, where the August jobless rate for Onondaga and Herkimer counties hit 5.1 per cent, or 7,100 persons.

A year ago, the unemployment figure for the area, which includes Utica and Rome, stood at 4.3 per cent, according to the State Labor Department.

With 5 per cent of its employables out of work, the Syracuse area, including all of Madison, Onondaga and Oswego counties, stood next in line, state figures show.

Unemployment rates also are up in the Buffalo and Rochester areas, to a lesser degree in the Albany-Schenectady-Troy area, and in Broome and Tioga counties, according to a spot survey by The Associated Press.

Statewide, 385,000 persons were out of work in August, up 105,000 from the same month a year ago.

Many observers attribute the state's falling employment to a generally ailing national economy. Some blame federal spending cuts and the administration directly, especially in the defense sector.

George L. Wessel, president of the Buffalo AFL-CIO Council, says the Nixon administration's economic policies are "definitely behind the trouble."

James Kellmurray, executive vice president of the Utica Industrial Development Corp., says his area "has had a lot of defense orders cut back, as well as subcontracts for defense orders."

The Utica-Rome area has been classified as having "substantial unemployment," and the State Employment Service has established a computerized job-finding service for the unemployed. The area has been hard hit by a slowdown in copper fabrication and defense-related manufacturing industries.

Two of the four copper fabricating plants in Rome have experienced payroll cuts and the industry, notes an observer, has been plagued generally by foreign competition, a price squeeze and inroads by aluminum.

Oneida County research director Joseph E. Reilly cites cut-backs at the local plants of General Electric, Bendix and Univac, as well as at Rome's Griffiss Air Force Base, where a command reorganization meant the loss of 141 civilian jobs.

Bruce K. Pierce, senior economist at the State Employment Service in Syracuse, notes that layoffs in that area "have been concentrated in the machinery, pottery, and primary metals industries."

The job pinch has been somewhat milder in the Triple Cities area of Binghamton - Johnson City - Endicott. There, the major employer, IBM, has avoided layoffs among 15,000 at two plants. But Bendix Corp., General Shelter Corp. and Ingersoll-Rand Co. have made cuts.

So has General Electric's flight and weapons control plant in Johnson City. The plant has dropped its employment by about half over two years. A decline in defense-aerospace business has been blamed for much of the Southern Tier's 4.7 per cent unemployment rate.

In Rochester, where unemployment remains a comparatively low 3.4 per cent but reached the 11,000 mark in August, further joblessness is anticipated, much of it to come as a result of the closure of General dynamics electronics division, which employs about 2,700.

To the south, in Steuben County, the picture is much the same. The Corning Glass Works has trimmed its work force and is continuing a program of not replacing many who retire, resign, or die. It is encouraging early retirements, as is the nearby air compressor plant of Ingersoll - Rand at Painted Post.

Executives at Ingersoll-Rand have also come up with a novel way of curtailing production without actual layoffs. The company is starting a program for hourly employees of not working the first week of the month, then working full-time the remaining three weeks.

$4,000 Scholarship Accepted at Paltz In Memory of Former UAW Leader

NEW PALTZ A $4,000 scholarship gift has been accepted by the State University College at New Paltz in memory of the late Walter Reuther, long-time prominent labor leader and president of the United Auto Workers.

In addition, the New Paltz branch of the First National Bank of Highland has established a $500 scholarship grant for new students living in New Paltz.

Dr. Hugo Munsterberg, chairman of the Art History Department, made the $4,000 scholarship donation recently. The fund was designated as a memorial to Reuther because of Munsterberg's "admiration for the leadership and life work of the fiery trade unionist." Reuther was killed in a plane crash last spring.

The Munsterberg gift is one of the largest received by the college's Committee on Student Scholarships and Financial Aid. College President John J. Neumaier called the gift, "a wonderful boost for our scholarship effort."

Dr. Munsterberg, a member of the New Paltz faculty since 1958, is a distinguished national land. Barbara Neuman and authority on Oriental art and is Ann Marie Dixon, both of New the author of several books on Paltz, shared equally in the art in Japan and the Orient. grant. In acknowledging the Two incoming freshmen at the gift, Dr. Neumaier expressed college have been named re- appreciation, "on behalf of the cipients of separate $250 scholarship grants awarded by the that will come from this kind First National Bank of High-of support."

By arrangement in advance with the Association for Mental Health offices in Kingston, the bus will stop at other points on the route which goes through Wallkill.

Lakers Halt 76ers' Streak

By United Press International
It's not easy to score one more field goal than your opponent and still lose a game by 24 points but that's exactly what the Philadelphia 76ers did Wednesday night.

The 76ers sank 51 baskets compared to 50 for the Lakers but Philadelphia came out on the short end of a 141-117 decision and dropped its first game of the season after posting four wins.

The refs called the 76ers for 34 personal fouls while the Lakers committed only 16 infractions and since the game was played at Philly's Spectrum, the question is, What ever became of the so-called home court advantage in pro basketball?

Jerry West, with 14 baskets and nine of 10 from the free throw line, paced the Lakers with 37 points and teammate Wilt Chamberlain chipped in with 26 in addition to hauling down 22 rebounds. Billy Cunningham's 22 points paced the 76ers.

Los Angeles held only a 55-52 lead at halftime but insured its second win in four games by outscore Philadelphia 41-25 in Jimmy Walker. The Pistons finished with 24 points, second in the third period with West were trailing 110-103 with only 4:32 left to play but Walker tallied 16 of his points in the decisive quarter.

Elsewhere in the National Basketball Association, Detroit downed Boston 121-118, Atlanta shaded San Francisco 102-100, Seattle topped Phoenix 110-106, and Baltimore beat Cincinnati 117-105.

Unbeaten Detroit notched its fifth victory thanks to Dave Bing's 35 points and 25 more by Billy Keller showed the way at the charity stripe, connecting on 14 free throws while deadeye Roger Brown was 12 for 12. Brown also hit on four three point field goals to wind up as high scorer for Indiana with 32 points and Keller finished with 30. The Cougars, still looking for their first win after three games, were led by Bob Verga's 33 points.

In other ABA games, Virginia whipped Kentucky 112-97, Utah smashed Pittsburgh 140-108, and Denver tripped Texas 133-115.

Rookie Charlie Scott turned in another impressive performance for Virginia as the Squires ran their record to 3-0 with their victory over Kentucky. Scott, who tallied 52 points in his first two ABA games, tossed in 33 against the Colonels. Another rookie, Dan Issel, paced Kentucky with 27.

Utah, the ABA's third unbeaten team, won its second game behind the shooting of Zelmo Beatty and Donnie Freeman. Beatty topped the Stars with 29 points and Freeman followed Baltimore took advantage of poor shooting by Cincinnati to hand the winless Royals their third loss, all at home. Cincinnati connected on only 44 of 111 shots from the field while the Bullets hit on the same number of goals with 15 fewer shots. Gus Johnson led Baltimore with 27 points and Jack Marin had 26 while Norm Van Lier was high for the Royals with 17.

Charity-Indiana Style

The word is out. When it comes to shooting free throws, don't mess with the Indiana Pacers.

The defending American Basketball Association champions were at their best Wednesday night, sinking all 35 of their foul shots, in beating Carolina 125-113 for their fifth victory without a loss this season.

25 years of hard labor for $1780.*

This year, everybody's introducing a new economy car.

"Volkswagen-sized." "Volkswagen-priced."

So not to be outdone, we've done the same.

Except, of course, we didn't have to start from scratch.

For years, while everybody else has been jumping from model to model and worrying about looks, we've stuck with our original and improved the way it works.

And so today, while ours may not look like the newest economy car, it's the most developed.

It's the only one with a sealed steel bottom. To protect its insides against just about everything outside, including time.

The only one with an air-cooled magnesium-alloy engine. To eliminate boiling over and freezing up.

And the only one with a free electronic diagnostic system. To spot problems early and help extend its life.

Best of all, compared to all the new domestic "Volkswagen-priced" cars introduced this year, ours costs about $200 less.

So even if it doesn't look the newest, maybe now it looks the best.

State U. Booters Notch 8th Straight Win

By IRA FUSFELD

CORTLAND
New Paltz State Hawks set a regular season varsity record here Wednesday as they won their eighth consecutive game, 3-2, in overtime, against Cortland State.

Elliott Poggi-Asare's goal in the first extra session was the margin of victory for coach Bob Durkin's sixth ranked NYS booters.

The win enabled the club to surpass the standard set by the 1965 Hawks who won seven straight and then added two more in post season play.

Rain and the resulting slick field played a big part in this SUNYAC contest as players continually lost their footing.

"Cortland plays a punt and chase game which is ideal for wet weather," said Durkin, who observed that in conditions such as yesterday's "the best team doesn't always win."

"We should have had ten more goals," he remarked, "and they should have had five. The ball would skip, skid, and bounce off the goalies."

But the stronger Hawks prevailed despite the fact that they saw a two goal lead go by the boards in the closing stages of regulation time.

Jerry Soulios gave New Paltz the lead early in the ball game. Taking a fine lead pass from Bob Hippy, Soulios took his time and beat goalie Ken McGerick at 1:08.

Soulios scored again at 2:28 of the third, this time on a hard blast in to the corner of the cage after latching onto a Guy Cassarini feed.

However, Cortland, fourth place team in the Conference behind Buffalo, Brockport, and New Paltz, all in the State's top ten, took the initiative in the fourth. Jim Sorentino put the Dragons on the board in a squibbler off an Al Fillipponi cross at 14:55. They tied it at 19:46 on a tally by Fillipponi.

"I'd say they were less than good goals," observed Durkin. So New Paltz went into overtime for the second straight game and, as was the case Saturday against Adelphi, the team huddled at midfield and took matters into their own hands.

"They knew what they had to do and they went out to do it," the victorious coach said.

The winning goal came on a play straight from soccer coaches' blackboards. Hippy booted a corner kick across the goal and at an angle where Poggi-Asare headed into the corner.

It was New Paltz's third win in four conference games, eight out of nine overall. They'll be home for the final time this season on Saturday to meet Plattsburgh State.

Night for Gilberts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It had been a couple of years since Gilles Gilbert's father had watched his son play hockey. But he picked the right night to look in on the 21-year-old goaltender.

Young Gilbert kicked out 46 Montreal shots Wednesday night and sparked Minnesota to a 3-1 victory over the Canadiens in a virtual one-man show.

"I was very proud of my boy," said Mr. Gilbert, who had not seen Gilles play since the latter's junior hockey days in London, Ontario, two years ago. "I wasn't nervous for him at all."

That was natural. The elder Gilbert played Senior "B" goal himself so he knew what Gilles was going through. So did Gump Worsley, Minnesota's 41-year-old goalie, who watched the youngster survive a 23-shot second period.

"I had barrages like that many times when I played for New York years ago," said Worsley. "It's awful. The kid did great."

Elsewhere in the NHL Wednesday, New York topped Toronto 3-2, St. Louis tied California 2-2 and Los Angeles topped Pittsburgh 4-2.

After Montreal's 23-shot second period, the North Stars broke a 1-1 tie on third period goals by Bill Goldworthy and Danny Grant.

New York bounced from behind on third period goals by as Gary Croteau and Joe Hardy gave the Golden Seals a 2-0 second period lead. But in a one-minute and two-second span rookie Guy Trotter and veteran Norm Ullman connected for the Maple Leafs.

"They outplayed us for two periods—beat us at the fundamentals of the game," said Emile Francis, general manager-coach of the Rangers. "You have to give them credit. They wouldn't let us get going."

California, losers of its first five games this season, appeared on the way to a victory

Bradshaw and Coach Noll Share That Same Feeling

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A being fogged in or something morseful Terry Bradshaw says he feels he "let the team down" by not showing up for a crucial Steeler practice session Tuesday. Coach Chuck Noll apparently felt the same so he fined Bradshaw "a substantial sum."

It was the second fine in less than a week for the star rookie quarterback.

Bradshaw who has permission to visit his Louisiana home after road games, telephoned Noll Monday night and told him he was having trouble getting a flight out of Shreveport.

He said something about

Pioneers Top RHS In Soccer

RHINEBECK The Rhinebeck soccer squad ran into what Coach Ralph Stuart called "the best team we have faced this year" in Poughkeepsie Wednesday, and lost resoundingly, 3-0.

It was only the second loss for the Indians this season, and they still lead the Northern Division of the DCSL. "The boys got this out of their system," said Stuart, who commented that play had been going downhill for the past few games.

The shockers came in the second period, as Trevor James knocked the first goal into the net at 3:24 and followed at 4:05 with a good penalty shot.

Right halfback Lyday iced the Poughkeepsie victory at 10:00 of the fourth period on a miscalculation in front of the goal.

"It was really pouring the whole second half, so you could hardly see," noted Stuart, who said he had never seen a soccer game postponed because of weather.

Poughkeepsie goalie Kelly had 16 saves, and Rhinebeck goalie Steve Skeene had 10. Poughkeepsie had 14 shots and Rhinebeck 16.

Gale Back In 1971

CHICAGO (UPI)—Star running back Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears should be physically ready for the 1971 season after his second knee operation in three years. Dr. Theodore Fox said Thursday.

Sayers has "no chance" to return to the Bears this season. Fox said after operating on Sayers' left knee to treat damaged posterior ligaments. He also operated on Bears running back Craig Baynham for a "dislocated" tendon in his ankle.

Fox said both operations were "completely successful" and that nothing unexpected was found in the injuries of either player. Sayers, he said, would be in a cast for six weeks and would have to do certain exercises during that time and later.

He said Baynham will be in a cast for four weeks and "a week or two later" should be ready to play again. Thus, Baynham might be able to join the Bears for the last few games of the season since nine games remain.

Sayers and Baynham were the starting running backs for the Bears at the beginning of the season.

Fox said the operation performed on Sayers Wednesday was not as serious as the operation performed in 1968, when Sayers' recovery was so complete that he won the National Football League rushing title in 1969 with gains of more than 1,000 yards.

"It's the same operation that was performed on George Seals two years ago," Fox said, "and the same operation on Pat Stapleton of the Chicago Black Hawks." Seals has been a starter for the Bears this year and Stapleton has rejoined the Black Hawks.

Another Bears player, receiver Bob Wallace, was released from the hospital yesterday three days after he was operated by Fox for torn cartilage and ligaments suffered in Sunday's game against San Diego. Fox said there was "no chance" Wallace would play again this year, but that he should be physically ready for 1971.

Dixon, Lamonica Tops

NEW YORK (AP)—If the National Football League individual statistics are giving a true picture, the National Conference has the better long-distance runners and the American Conference has the better long-distance passers.

Statistics released today show three NFC ground gainers—MacArthur Lane of St. Louis, Larry Brown of Washington and Calvin Hill of Dallas—with more than 400 yards gained rushing. Not one AFC back can make that claim.

At the same time, the statistics show three AFC passers—Daryle Lamonica of Oakland, Bob Griese of Miami and Dennis Shaw of Buffalo—gaining more than eight yards a completion. Only one NFC passer can make that claim, John Brodie of San Francisco.

Lane leads the NFC rushers with 494 yards for a 6.1 average to 433 yards and a 5.2 average for Brown, last week's leader. Hill is right behind Brown with 427 yards and a 4.2 average.

The AFC leader is Hewitt Dixon of Oakland, who pulled into first place with the AFC's top performance of the season by gaining 164 yards in 18 attempts against Washington. That gave him a total of 369 and a 5.4 average.

The runner-up is last week's leader, Floyd Little of Denver, with 353 yards and a 3.8 average. Leroy Kelly of Cleveland is third with 334 yards and a 3.6 average.

Lamonica ranks No. 1 in the AFC, completing 56.9 per cent of his passes for 1,282 yards, 11 touchdowns and an average gain of 8.01. Griese is second with a 53.8 completion percentage, 899 yards, seven touchdowns and an 8.48 mark for average yards gained.

One of the two big surprises is Shaw, the Bills' rookie quarterback, who has the best average gain of 10.22 yards. He has completed 62.5 per cent of his passes for 1,063 yards and four touchdowns.

The other surprise is Joe Namath, the injured New York Jets' quarterback who raised his yardage total to 1,259 against Denver.

Bobby Joe Green leads the NFC's punters with a 43.3 average. Bruce Taylor of San Francisco is No. 1 in punt returns with a 12.4 average. Cecil Turner is tops in kickoff returns with a 35.8 average and there is a three-way tie for the interception lead among Clarence Williams of Los Angeles, Willie Wood of Green Bay and Spider Lockhart of New York. Each has four.

In the AFC, David Lee of Baltimore heads the punters with a 46.8 average. Ed Podolak of San Francisco is No. 1 in punt returns with a 18.8 average. O.J. Simpson of Buffalo tops the kick New York Giants, each with 25, returners with a 52.4 average. Fred Cox of Minnesota's Vikings is the leading scorer with 31 points in the NFC, followed by rookie David Ray of Los Angeles, with 49.

Classic Contests Are Set Saturday

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON Roundout Valley High School meets Liberty and New Paltz travels to Highland Saturday in two classic confrontations in the Ulster County Athletic League and could settle aspirations for the football crown for at least one of the four squads.

Other area games on the slate include: Kingston at Middletown, Walkill at Marlboro, Red Hook at Millbrook, Ellenville at Pine Plains and Saugerties at John Jay.

The Gander-Redskins contest is one that will be viewed with vast interest by UCAL football fans all over, particularly in Highland and New Paltz. Liberty has had a so-so year, but always manages to get up for the big ones. The visitors are 2-2 in the league and at this point don't appear to figure in the title picture except as spoilers.

Bruce Rosencranse is the Redskins' top star and one of the leading scorers in the UCAL. When Bruce can't do it with speed, fullback George Benton does it with power.

Rondout, on the other hand, is 4-0, leading the UCAL. Should the Ganders lose, they would be in a flat-footed tie with the winner of the Highland-New Paltz contest.

Gander Coach John "Mickey" Million realizes, as does his team, that this is a must contest. It would make the Ganders 5-0 with just two games remaining. New Paltz and Onteora.

Actually Rondout is 5-0 overall and while the offense has been outstanding, the defense has been just as good, if not better. In the five games, the Gander stalwarts have allowed just 20 points, an average of four per game. Les Green, Buford Wood and Brian McCann the same mold as a Joe Kapp.

Wallace is the type of quarterback who plays "any way to beat you." He hollers at his club to run and block, he exhorts the defense to get the ball, he cajoles the outstanding performers and comforts when he knows you did your best.

He is tough, smart and knows his sport. If running will beat you, he runs. If passing will beat you, he passes. And if those ways fail, he'll find others. He never gives up trying. And.

Dave Hampton Out

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—Dr. Eugene Brusky, Green Bay Packers' team physician, said Wednesday running back Dave Hampton of the National Football League team had a "small abscess in his pelvis" drained Tuesday.

Hampton underwent surgery two weeks ago for a pelvic abscess.

do most of the knuckling down for Rondout.

If Rondout fans are worried about any type of a let-down, they can rest easy. The Ganders have a man at quarterback who reminds one of a tough Marine Drill Instructor, although his hair may be slightly longer than is customarily seen at Parris Island.

George Wallace is the Rondout signal-caller and is cut out of never lets his team give up either.

He has personally accounted for 20 points thus far. His running backs, Bill Pareto and Mike Alecca are two of the best around. Alecca has 18 points and Pareto, 30. The Gander offensive line is anchored by center Chuck Marshall and end Bruce Burr and they do an outstanding job.

But, it's George who makes the club go and so far they've gone all right.

Monroe—A Bruiser

Coach Lem Atkins Highlander team has been rolling along since their opening season loss to Rondout after a non-league victory over Saugerties. Perry Monroe, Doug Geer and Bob Mattice have been outstanding on the offense for Highland.

Monroe has scored 50 points on eight touchdowns and two extra-point kicks. He is the most bruising and powerful runner in the UCAL, having amassed 427 yards in 64 carries for an average of about 6.7 yards-per-carry.

In the line, it's Dennis Bragg, Pete Affa, Dale Coppola and John Barrington who open the holes for Monroe and Company and get the ball for the offense when opponents threaten to score.

Highland is 3-1, should they win, they would still be in the running for at least half, maybe all of the UCAL crown.

On the other hand should they lose, New Paltz lose, and unless fate sees a tie one of them will, they would probably be eliminated from the race.

Surprise at New Paltz

New Paltz has been the surprise of the season in the UCAL thus far and were just as surprised last week when an injury-riddled Onteora squad knocked them off. New coach John Ford has given the Huguenot football fortunes a breath of life when they appeared on the verge of becoming somewhat of a joke.

He has some very talented performers in tailback Harold Anderson, fullback Bill Schiller, halfback Yonnik Faulkner, ends Brad Hart and John Palonis and defensive back Joe Williams.

And, the man who makes it all go, quarterback Jay Ackert. Ackert runs the belly and option series as well as anyone around. He can take off on the run, stop on a dime and hit his receivers with outstanding accuracy. The only knock on him would be fumbles. But, the belly and option are harder than any other series to run and he handles the ball himself at least 70 per cent of the time. Like Wallace, Ackert is a leader in the leader's position.

Offense-Minded Teams Play

By HERSCHEL NSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK AP) — If you're a lover of offensive football, hop aboard the next jet for Los Angeles; Eugene, Ore.; Colorado Springs, Colo.; or El Paso, Tex. This weekend's college football schedule lists four games which should be enough to satisfy anyone who likes to see the football move up and down the field. They are Stanford at UCLA, Southern California at Oregon, Boston College at Air Force and Arizona State at Texas-El Paso.

Last week's picks came out 39 right, 18 wrong for .667. The season's record is 254-106-4 for .70.

Stanford at UCLA—The Indians, with all-time total offense leader Jim Plunkett, rank seventh nationally in that category and second in passing offense, while UCLA is 14th and ninth, respectively, with Dennis Dummit at the controls. It should be close, but Stanford smells those roses.

Southern Cal at Oregon—The Trojans, with their great running backs, are third in total offense and seventh in rushing. Oregon, despite an injury to quarterback Tom Blanchard, ranks first in passing with 308.7 yards a game thanks to the combined efforts of Blanchard and sophomore Dan Fouts.

Trojans can be had, but their offense is about due to erupt again. Southern Cal.

Boston College at Air Force—Falcons are fifth in total offense and fourth in passing with Bob Parker. Eagles are 10th over-all and 13th rushing... but Air Force also is eighth best against the rush. Air Force.

Arizona State at Texas-El

Paso—Now hear this, statistics lovers: State is second in total offense, eighth in rushing, 11th in passing, 21st in total defense, sixth in rushing defense. Miners, thanks to Bill Craig's 507 passing yards last weekend, rank third in passing, 13th over-all. Not enough, Arizona State.

Louisiana State at Auburn—Tigers are fourth in total offense, fifth in passing to LSU's seventh in over-all defense and tops against the run... so it should be interesting. Winner will remain unbeaten in the Southeastern Conference and Auburn remembers last year's heart-breaking 21-20 defeat. Auburn.

Florida at Tennessee—Doug

Dickey, who coaches at Florida, was at the helm of Tennessee in last season's 14-13 Gator Bowl loss. That was only the second time in 13 meetings Florida managed to beat the Vols and things should be back to normal, Tennessee.

Miami, Fla. at Pitt—Rebounding Panthers were voted tops in the East after that fantastic 36-35 comeback victory over West Virginia, in which they wiped out a 35-8 halftime deficit. How can there be a letdown after that? Pitt.

Colorado at Missouri—Tigers bounce back from losses to Notre Dame last week and Colorado last season, Missouri. Southern Mississippi at Mississippi State—Southern come back to earth after their shocking upset of Ole Miss. Mississippi State.

Kansas State at Oklahoma—Wildcats are on probation and Sooners are unbeaten in Big Eight play, Oklahoma.

Other games: East—Penn State over Army, Colgate over Brown, Columbia over Rutgers, Yale over Cornell, Dartmouth over Harvard, Princeton over Penn, Syracuse over Navy, Villanova over Holy Cross, West Virginia over Colorado State.

South—Mississippi over Vanderbilt, The Citadel over VMI, Duke over Clemson, Georgia Tech over Tulane, Georgia over Kentucky, Western Michigan over Marshall, Maryland over

North Carolina State, Richmond over East Carolina, South Carolina over Florida State, Tampa over Xavier, Virginia over William & Mary, Virginia Tech over Buffalo, North Carolina over Wake Forest, Wofford over Davidson.

Midwest—Ohio State over Illinois, Nebraska over Oklahoma State, Michigan over Minnesota, Toledo over Kent State, Dayton over Akron, Ball State over Northern Illinois, Cincinnati over Ohio U., Indiana over Wisconsin, Kansas over Iowa State, Miami, O. over Bowling Green, Michigan State over Iowa, Northwestern over Purdue.

Southwest—Texas over Rice, Arkansas over Wichita State, Houston over Alabama, Texas A&M over Baylor, Memphis State over North Texas State, Texas Tech over Southern Methodist, New Mexico State over West Texas State.

Far West—Utah State over Brigham Young, California over Washington State, Idaho over Portland State, Oregon State over Washington, Pacific over San Jose State, Arizona over Utah, New Mexico over Wyoming.

Kingston Area Bowling Scores

Two Bowlers Are Tied For Second-Place Standing

KINGSTON Boosted by games of 200 and 221, Joan Jameson rolled a 614 triple in the Bowlerama Quads league to put her in second place tie with Gilda Bach in the area top ten.

Barbara Finch and Gloria Daley also recorded top-notch scores in Bowlerama action. Finch hit 201 twice en route to a 505 triple, seventh highest of the season. Daley's 590, which included 200 and 221, puts her ninth.

Finch is now included three times on the top ten. She holds the high series, 63, and the fifth high, 600.

In other Bowlerama action, Karen Woodvine hit for a 556. Jackie Glaser posted a 540. Sis Balash walloped a 531. Rheta Sheeley scored 202-528. Mickey Amarello carded a 504.

The prosecution surprised the defense by resting its case Tuesday after calling only three witnesses. None testified to seeing Mitchell fire any shots which struck anyone at My Lai.

Calley reportedly is scheduled to make a trip to Vietnam Monday with his lawyers to take depositions from five South Vietnamese witnesses in his own case. A special session in Mitchell's trial may have to be held Saturday to receive Calley's testimony, the source said.

Calley is charged with murder of 102 civilians in the South Vietnamese hamlet on March 16, 1968. His court-martial is set for Nov. 16 at Ft. Benning, Ga. Mitchell, 30, of St. Francis

11th Arrest At Kent State From Disorders

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—The arrest of a former Kent State University coed has brought to 11 the number arrested on indictments stemming from the disorders that culminated in the shooting deaths of four students by National Guardsmen May 4.

Mary Helen Nicholas, 22, Akron, was arrested Wednesday on a charge of interfering with firemen at the scene of a fire. The charge apparently involved the burning of the Kent State ROTC Building May 2. She was the first woman to be arrested.

Twenty-five persons were indicted by a special grand jury that issued its report on the disorders last Friday and ordered the arrests. No guardsmen were indicted. The jury castigated the university administration for its "permissive attitude."

As Portage County authorities sought the remaining 14 persons indicted, controversy flared over the constitutionality of a court order prohibiting Kent State President Robert I. White from expressing criticism of the jury report.

U.S. District Court Judge Ben C. Green refused Wednesday to issue a temporary injunction requested by the American Civil Liberties Union to lift the ban. He set Oct. 29 for a hearing on a permanent injunction.

Information relative to the Department's location recommendation is available for public inspection and copying at the office of the Regional Director of Transportation, New York State Department of Transportation, 28 Dutchess Turnpike, Poughkeepsie, New York, or at the Resident Engineers Office located at 11 Quarry Street, Kingston, New York. This information will include the comments or views received from various Federal and State agencies, local governmental agencies and officials and civic groups.

A notice stating the action taken by the Federal Highway Administration on the Department's request for location approval will be published in this newspaper.

Dear Abby

Home and Country

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe millions of people are going to sit still and let you call them dillards because their only interests are their children's homes and jobs. Many young couples are on small budgets and they don't have the time to get involved in civic and political things as you suggest. Instead, they are planting lawns, refinishing furniture, and trying to make ends meet. They are just as proud of their accomplishments as the man who changes a zoning law or a woman who campaigns for low-cost housing. Don't knock the little guy, O.K.?

BELITTLED IN BARSTOW

DEAR BELITTLED: In a democracy, the "little guy" is more important than the "big guy" because the little guys comprise the majority, which rules. The people (mostly little guys) vote their candidates into office, and in many communities they vote for tax reforms, bond issues, and other vital matters concerning their communities.

The most important thing a man (or woman) can do for his family is to study the issues and the candidates and to make intelligent use of his voting privilege. What does it profit a man to have his furniture refinished if somebody is building a bomb in his basement? Edmund Burke said, "All that is necessary for evil to succeed is that good men do nothing."

DEAR ABBY: I am so mad at you that I could crown you for giving all that valuable space to those dirty housekeepers. One would think you had to be a dirty housekeeper in order to be a Good Samaritan!

One woman bragged that she keeps open house for runaways, no sister, no parents. What a alcoholics, hippies and drug addicts. Big deal! I know a little 98 pound woman whose house is so clean you could eat off her floor. She even bakes her own bread! She has one child of her own and recently adopted an orphaned infant and a 14-year-old girl whose own mother didn't want her. Come clean, Abby, whose side are you on anyway?

NOT MAD ANYMORE DEAR NOT: There is "clean" dirt and "dirty" dirt. I am offended by "dirty" dirt. But if one's home is in less than apple pie order because her time is spent in charity, I would not criticize her.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this. It may help some other stupid kid who can't wait to leave home:

My sister and I had a good home but we thought our parents were too strict. My sister ran away at 18 and married a guy who turned out to be a bun. Just like we figured he would.

I left home when I turned 18 because I wanted to be free to come and go as I pleased. It was fun for about six months, then I started to get lonesome and things got really tough, but I didn't have the nerve to ask my folks to let me come home because I hadn't kept in touch with them to let them know I was safe. The longer I stayed away, the more ashamed I got, so I just sort of faded out of the picture for two years.

Then I heard my mother was sick so I went home. She had had a nervous breakdown about a year after I left, and she will never get out of the sick home she's in. She doesn't know me or any of the family anymore. Now I'll never be able to tell her I love her and I'm sorry for what I did. My father has aged 20 years and he stays drunk all the time.

I have nothing now. No home, no sister, no parents. What a mess I've made out of my life chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. I left home to be with don't For a personal reply enclose mean a thing to me now. I hate stamped, addressed envelope, them all. But most of all, I hate myself. Sign me... For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. ## CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: discharge your responsibilities. Good day and evening for you to strut and enjoy past accomplishments. It is also a good day to go to those in positions of power and authority to let them know your finest qualities and capabilities. Give them the opportunity to help you make them workable. Back their plans, also.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Creativity is the keynote now for perfecting capabilities. Later, you can have much pleasure with persons you like. Being more affectionate with others adds to your own happiness now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Making your home more efficient as well as charming should be one of the activities today. So find the right gadgets. Then extend invitations to those you want to impress. Have a delightful evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Showing those who are your faithful co-workers some special thoughtfulness brings excellent results now. You can gain the assistance of persons who can be of great help to you now. Use tact.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you think big you can get big now, especially in terms of property, investments. Discuss with a bigwig how he can be of assistance in this. Don't get cold feet and be a cry baby this afternoon.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you use that famous smile more, you find you get excellent results with others in whatever your aims or activities. Use wit in handling a person who has been rather cold toward you lately. Keep a sensible diet.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day to plan just what you can do for those you like and to whom you owe a debt of gratitude. An expert in your field of endeavor can give you invaluable advice today. Listen closely to what is being said.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Showing gratitude to bigwigs who have been helpful to you in the past and getting new ideas from them is wise now. Attend social events and make headway. Dress well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) There is a chance now to gain the favor of a higher-up by having an intelligent conversation with this person. Showing him you understand their needs and goals by helping them is fine. Stop criticizing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) There are many fine ideas you can put in operation, especially with the aid of dynamic friends. Making preparations to take a trip soon could take quite a while, so get started now. Read some tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you are conscientious in getting your responsibilities handled, you make big headway. Find the reasons why mate is acting odd. Try to be of assistance instead of criticizing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have fine ideas now that can be utilized to gain the favor of higher-ups and others who count in your scheme of things. Speak frankly to associates and cement better relations. Circle date you have to remember on your calendar.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Many persons will help you to

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

WRONG SCHOOL? (Q.) I'm in an all-girl school this fall. My girl friend says this is absolutely the wrong thing for me to do. She says that in high school a girl's social life is just about as important as her education, and she shouldn't miss being around boys.

She says I have only one chance to grow up and boys are a part of growing up. She told me she wouldn't be found dead in an all-girl school.

My mother, I believe, sort of agrees with her. But my dad says a girl's school is best for me. Nearly everyone else I've talked to prefers a coed school. What do you think? I'm 14 and want the best education I can get.—Pushed and Pulled in Beaumont, Texas.

(A.) I prefer a coeducational high school. But for you a year, or even four years, in a girls' school may be advantageous. Some girls find they can concentrate better in a school such as yours.

And a girls' school doesn't have to completely cut you off from boys, as your friend seems to think.

A MAXI VOTE: (Q.) I love maxis. A long skirt floating around my legs enchants me. Our school may let us wear them.

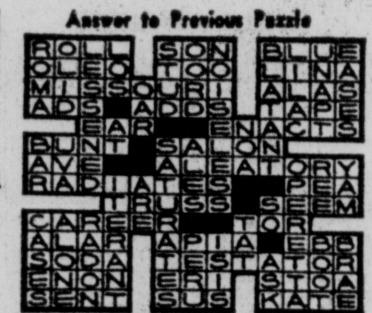

Would I look good in a maxi? I'm five feet four and 14 years old.—Maxi Maid in Syracuse, N. Y.

(A.) Midis are much more popular than maxis. However, you are a good height for a maxi. They usually look better on really tall girls.

No Cash Dividend on Comedy

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Cash, one of the most highly publicized entertainers on the contemporary scene, is back on ABC for another season of variety hours from Nashville. The show, now and last season, is fine when it sticks to music, but gets into trouble with comedy.

On Wednesday night, Cash introduced Marty Robbins for a comedy routine which curled up and died for a variety of reasons.

The country Western artist seems interested in broadening his series' audience base this season. He had Peggy Lee, an especially urbane entertainer, as his guest. But like oil and water, Cash and Lee didn't mix well.

"The Advocates," the current affairs program started on the education network last season, has come back with a radical change of format. The program still takes up a different subject each week but now its form is more like that of "Divorce Court" than a debate.

Under consideration Wednesday night was the idea of economist Milton Friedman to restructure the educational system by issuing vouchers with which parents could send children to the school of their choice.

In the new set-up two lawyers take opposing viewpoints and call witnesses for direct examination then cross-examination. Considerable heat and some light was generated, but generally the program consisted of a lot of wrangling and oratory.

The word is around—spread primarily by the weekly Nielsen ratings that this season's youth

Buckley on Nixon Stance—Obviously Pleased

NEW YORK (UPI) — James Buckley, Conservative party candidate for the U.S. Senate, expressed his pleasure Wednesday night at receiving President Nixon's tacit endorsement. "I'm obviously very pleased. I do believe it is a tacit endorsement," Buckley said. "He (Nixon) is obviously the head of the party," Buckley said. "What he said, in effect, is that he knew who could work most effectively with the party." Buckley is an enrolled Republican who has two lines on the ballot — the Conservative party and the Independent Alliance party.

Nixon's indirect endorsement came Wednesday when Presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler said the President "will refrain from the usual practice of supporting the Republican nominee." While Nixon did not directly endorse Buckley, Ziegler said G.O.P. Senator Charles E. Goodell had not supported the President "on the major issues he has faced."

"I do not consider it a slap in the face," Goodell said of the Nixon statement. "I don't think it was much of a surprise," said Democratic Senator hopeful Richard L. Ottinger. "It was quite clear when Agnew went on his rampage where Nixon stood, but I don't think the voters in New York State are going to be much influenced by it," he said. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has previously attacked Goodell. Governor Rockefeller who has affirmed his support for Goodell whom he appointed to the Senate to fill the vacancy left by the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, said "It was an endorsement by implication."

ROCKY, LINDSAY—FRIENDLY ENEMIES (UPI Telephoto)

Rocky and Lindsay--Smiles, Wise Cracks

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Maynard V. Lindsay, who have had scarcely a kind word for each other since the mayor endorsed the governor's election opponent, are trading smiles and wisecracks again. They both appeared at two functions Wednesday, grinning happily, shaking hands for photographers and insisting they were still the best of friends. At the $100-a-plate Alfred E. Smith Foundation dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria, Lindsay set the tone by remarking that he felt "a little unfortunate—because I must be the only man in town without a friend at Chase Manhattan," a reference to the governor's brother, David Rockefeller, Chase Manhattan president. The mayor, who earlier this week supported Democratic gubernatorial candidate Arthur J. Goldberg, said he would keep tabs on how long he talked "on my new Arthur Goldberg watch that goes on and on and on." Lindsay, who received roars of approval for his opening wisecracks, got some boos when he continued: "I understand that 19 former city employees came out in support of the governor, and I don't blame them—if I didn't have a job, I would too." He could understand, he quipped, why Atty. Gen. John Mitchell favored wiretapping, because "that's the only way he can check on his wife." Rockefeller, who was given a standing ovation, let his voice fall amid laughter as he said: "Mr. Mayor, it's nice to see you here this evening."

Governor Hopefuls Debate

NEW YORK (UPI) — The three candidates for governor met in their first debate of the campaign Wednesday and Governor Rockefeller and Arthur J. Goldberg concentrated on each other, with several heated exchanges.

The candidates debated at the New York Times. For most of the session, the two major party candidates kept Paul Adams, the Conservative hopeful, out of the exchanges.

During a discussion of campus unrest, Goldberg said "By the way governor, I saw some school teachers' strikes upstate as well when I was there the last time." "That's right," Rockefeller replied. "That lasted two or three days." "Yes, in violation of the law," Goldberg said. "That's right," replied Rockefeller. "And I don't like laws that people violate," Goldberg said. "Now I was proposing..." Rockefeller interrupted saying: "What would you do, cancel all laws?" Much of the debate was taken up on the state's fiscal needs. Goldberg urged tax reform, Adams proposed tax reductions and Rockefeller defended current policies.

"We are the most highly taxed state in the union," Goldberg said. "I think we need tax reform. We need it for very basic reasons — among them, equity. This is the most important thing in government." Goldberg said if governor he would raise the cutoff on income tax so that persons making $35,000 a year or more would pay more tax, revise the capital gains tax to make it a little higher, eliminate tax shelters and revise the business tax and said he would establish an agency to work strictly in the budget questions before the legislature. Rockefeller said Goldberg was misinformed about the present tax structure and told Adams the state already had specialists on the budget.

"I know of no reform that would suit the people of this state like that, and nothing that I can think that would be as beneficial to the general climate as this."

But first, Adams said, the level of spending must be reduced.

"The tax reform that he (Goldberg) refers to is interesting and he has ignored the fact that the Congress of the United States, led by his party, went through a long period of debate and came out with a tax reform at this last session," Rockefeller said.

Terrorists Maintain Silence

MONTREAL (UPI) — Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ) kidnappers of British diplomat James Cross maintained their silence today on the fate of Montreal, late Wednesday their captive. Hopes were raised Wednesday when police received three calls from an anonymous person claiming to represent the body of slain Quebecer the Cross kidnappers. The Cabinet Minister Pierre Laporte said the FLQ was porting was found. "Interested" in a government. In two notes—one addressed offer to fly the kidnappers to the authorities and one to his Cuba in exchange for the safe wife—Cross warned police his return of Cross, but subsequent checking led police to "doubt the authenticity of the calls." An accompanying communiqué from the FLQ threatened to execute Cross if the government did not meet its demands to release 23 members of the terrorist organization held in Quebec jails. It added, however, the terrorists "hoped to save the life of Cross." Should the FLQ decide to accept the government offer, a helicopter is waiting for them at the Canadian pavilion of the Expo '67 World's Fair. There they would have to turn Cross over to the Cuban consul. The helicopter would take them to Montreal International Airport for the flight to Cuba, and Cross would be released in Montreal when they arrive in Havana.
